VEIL OF MYSTERY OVER BLACK SEA

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Berlin, May 20.—A veil of mystery covers the activities of the fleets in the Black Sea. Only once in a while we hear that a few steamers or sailing vessels have been sunk, or that warships bombarded the Turkish or Russian coast.

But what has become known leaves no doubt, that thrilling events have happened and are still happening on the ancient Pontus Euxinus and that the often destroyed battle cruiser Goeben is successfully holding the whole Russian fleet in check with the aid of the small but swift Breslau.

"The whole world will be astonished when the censor permits the press to tell the story of the navy war on the Black Sea," Dr. Ludwig Ganghofer, the famous novelist and war correspondent, writes from Constantinople.

"Military reasons demand that secrecy be continued a little longer, but the veil may soon be lifted. I know what has happened and I can assure the folks at home that the German officers and sailors fighting on the side of the Turks have covered themselves with eternal glory and accomplished deeds which surpass all imagination."

"A few hints I am allowed to give. The former Goeben, now the Janus Selin, has dashed through fire and death under the Crescent flag dozens of times since her celebrated escape from the harbor of Messina, at the beginning of the war. More than once the wonderful fighting ship has been severely damaged, but she has never received a mortal wound. The great cruiser is as fit as ever and only a few scars tell of the terrible battles she has fought."

"Last month certain orders were received which staggered even the fearless German officers."

"This enterprise is impossible, it will cost the Goeben," they said, but the orders had to be carried out. "Admiral Souchen personally took command of the vessel and declared: 'If the Goeben has to go down, I want to be on the commander's bridge.'"

"When the Goeben left the Dardanelles all who knew what her mission was said: 'She will never return.' But after three days and three nights of nerve racking suspense the battle cruiser came back unscathed."

"She had gloriously solved the problem given her and escaped unhurt. What she did must remain a secret for the present, but I can say that dash was the most brilliant and astonishing naval feat of the present war."

THOUGHT HE COULD DRINK LIKE A MAN

Three Manhattan Cocktails Proved Undoing of Earl Van Loan, 18 Years Old of Catskill—That Was All He Could Remember of Circus Day.

Friday morning Earl Van Loan, 18 years old, who is employed as clerk in a fruit store in Catskill, took the day off and with several companions came to Kingston to visit the circus. When they reached Kingston they felt somewhat dry and started to quench their thirst in a thirst emporium. That was the last that he remembered until he woke up in jail.

This morning Earl, looking much the worse for wear, was arraigned before Recorder Lang and said how he had come here expecting to enjoy the circus. He said that he and his friends wandered into a thirst parlor, and there he consumed three Manhattan cocktails. The last thing he remembered after that was that he laid himself down to rest on Ten Broeck avenue and when he awoke he said "I found myself in prison."

How he got in prison Earl was unable to remember.

As he reflectively stuck one hand in his pants pocket while telling his story a look of wonder swept over his face and he withdrew his hand empty and plunged it into his other pockets with like result. "I also had my pockets picked," he informed the judge.

"I have your money in police headquarters," interrupted Sergeant Hanley, who had brought the young man into court. It might be added that a prisoner is arrested the police always search them, and they have any money that is taken away from them and placed in an envelope and marked with the prisoner's name and later returned to him.

Earl confessed that he had been drunk once or twice before, and Recorder Lang informed him that he was ashamed of a young man of 18 years of age getting drunk, and he informed Earl that as this was the first time he was arrested he would give him another chance, but he warned Earl if he ever came to Kingston and was arrested for the same offense he would be sent to jail.

Earl had a return ticket for Catskill and left for home on the next train.

MEAT PRICES ARE MAKING NEW JUMP

Wholesale Figures Tilted a Few Cents the Last Few Days—Some Green Vegetables Lower With Influx of Home-Grown Products.

Meat dealers have been given notice of another jump in the price of meats, wholesale prices prevailing today at the depots of the big packers in Kingston being from one cent to three cents higher a pound for beef and lamb. A price of $16 a hundred would not surprise one of the city meat men, according to a statement today, the scarcity of cattle and the increase in shipments of meat to the war zone being given as the causes for these newest tilts.

Beef today is quoted at 14½ to 15 cents wholesale which means that the retailer has got to get pretty nearly thirty cents a pound for the choicer cuts in order to be assured a profit. Lamb is 20 to 21 cents wholesale, there being a great scarcity in this line as no native lamb is yet available and the supply from distant points being small. Pork is 17½ cents wholesale with indications of a further jump within a few days. It is said that the problem of prices is one that is seriously concerning many butcher shops.

In the line of green vegetables, prices continue unusually high for this time of year, wholesale rates being quite a bit higher than last year at this time, according to dealers. Potatoes, old and new, continue high in spite of increasing shipments from the south. Old potatoes are at $1.40 a bushel wholesale with $6.75 a barrel for new potatoes, barrels containing about two and one-half bushels. Head lettuce has been so high that little has been on the market. Today it was sold at $3 a crate wholesale but the crates contained but 18 to 20 heads on the average. Asparagus is cheaper with the home product appearing in quantity, $1.75 a dozen being the rate. Spinach is also plentiful, the wholesale rate being about 50 cents a bushel and retail about 20 to 25 cents a peck.

Onions and radishes, home grown, are cheap as is rhubarb. String beans are in the market, bringing $2.35 a basket wholesale, while some fine cucumbers were distributed this morning at $3.55 a crate. Celery is $3.25 a crate and some cauliflower has been on the market at $1.90 a crate.

So far the high cost of living has not been appreciably cut by fresh vegetables taking the place of meat, but this time is the worst of the year, between seasons, when the home grown things are hardly on the market. Another week will see the latter in increasing quantities and crowding the southern stuff off the boards by reason of its superior freshness and flavor to say nothing of the lower prices.

CIRCUS MAN WILL NOT FORGET CITY

He Assaulted Thomas F. Linden of Tremper Avenue, and was Arrested by Police—At Same Time was Served with Summons in Civil Action, Which He Settled.

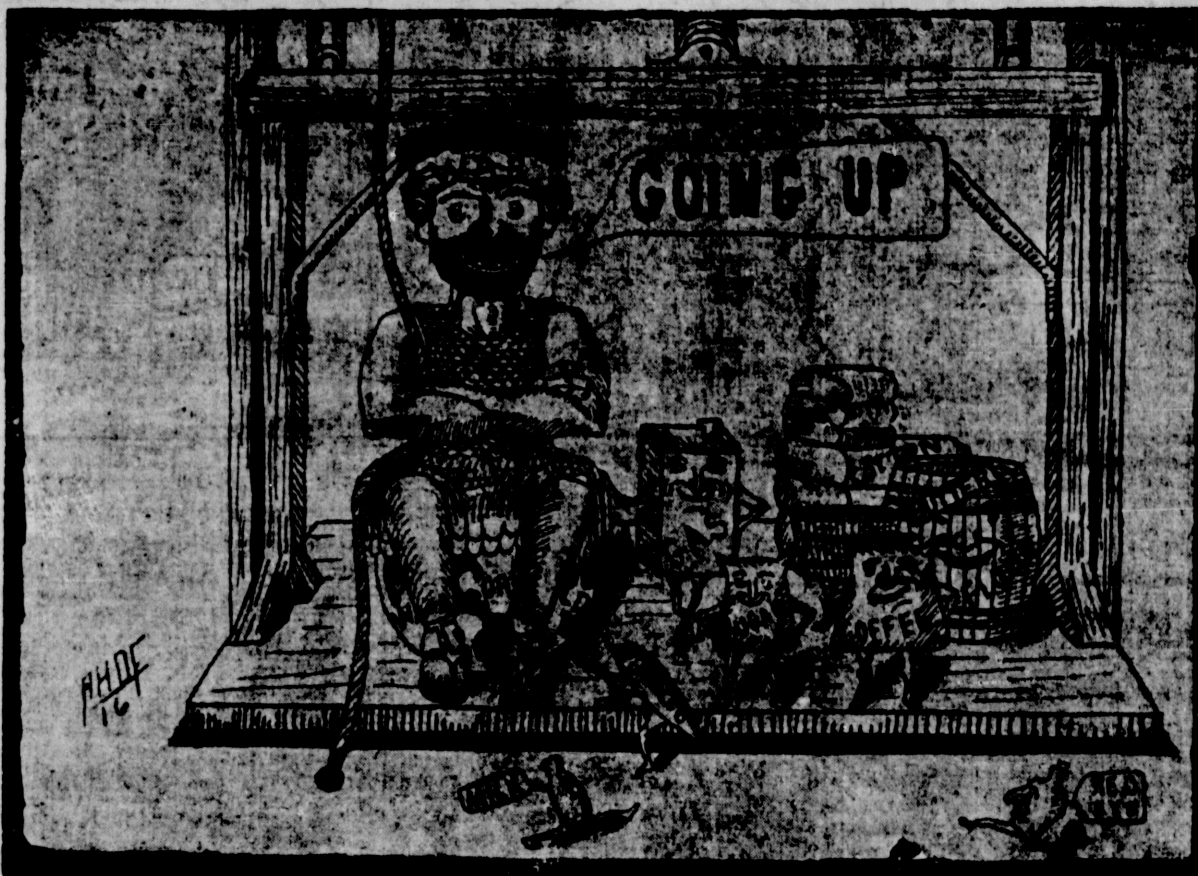

Benjamin Green, an usher at Barnum & Bailey's circus, will not forget Kingston in a hurry and at the same time he learned a rather costly lesson in the art of keeping one's temper, when he was arrested by the police on a charge of assault in the third degree preferred against him by Thomas F. Linden of No. 144 Tremper avenue. At the same time that Green was placed under arrest he was served with a summons in a civil suit for damages brought in behalf of Mr. Linden.

It seems from what could be learned that Mr. Linden and his wife and child attended the afternoon performance of the greatest show on earth, and at the close started to leave the tent. Green did not like the Lindens to leave the tent in the direction they were going and he grasped hold of Mr. Linden and pushed him back telling him to go out the other way. Mr. Linden advised him not to shove him around and then Green punched him in the face.

Owing to the fact that Mr. Linden had his wife and child with him he did not care to get mixed up in a fracas with Green and instead of returning the blow he sought Recorder Lang later in the afternoon and swore out a warrant which was served on Green by Sergeant Murray and Handley. At the same time Mr. Linden interviewed Judge N. Frank O'Reilly and had the judge draw up a summons in a civil action for damages against Green.

This summons was placed in the hands of Mr. Clair and was served by him on Green at the same time that Green felt the heavy hand of the law on his shoulders and a voice saying in his ear that he was under arrest.

Later in the evening Mr. Green settled with Mr. Linden and the civil action was withdrawn and the complaint of assault in the third degree against Green.

U. S. TROOPS LEAVING MEXICO

By Telegram to The Freeman.
El Paso, Tex., May 20.—Troops of the Sixteenth U. S. Infantry have been ordered out of Mexico to take up border patrol duty and within a few days will follow the Sixth Cavalry back across the international boundary line. This was learned today while the Sixth Cavalry camped at Columbus awaiting the orders that will take it into the Big Bend district.

The Langhorne-Sibley expedition is also coming back to the border. Major Langhorne's weary riders, after going 135 miles into Mexico, drew back into El Paso, 70 miles from the border, and effected a junction with Col. Sibley's main force. As soon as scattered detachments arrive at El Paso the return to the border will begin.

The fact that some American troops are leaving Mexico has already encouraged the Villistas and the long sought "Pancho" himself is reported to have taken the field again in the district around Parral and Chihuahua. To this fact is attributed a sudden tightening of the military censorship at Columbus. All news from General Pershing's main forces is concealed.

The brief American campaign in Mexico exhausted the supply of cavalry horses and buyers are industriously seeking remounts for Uncle Sam's soldiers. One buyer collected 600 horses with great difficulty. He blamed the European war for the scarcity of horses, stating that he had previously shipped 235,000 abroad.

"If we had a real war we would have to take our cavalry and artillery horses from wagons on the streets," he said. "It was officially informed by the French government that 10,000 horses had been used in one battle in Europe. That would be impossible in this country."

WHO WILL TALK AT THE HELLO SMOKER

Mayor Canfield Will Greet Mayor of San Francisco, Major Chandler Will Talk With an Army Officer and President Leighton Will Talk.

The transcontinental telephone demonstration and smoker arranged for the Chamber of Commerce will be held on Thursday evening, May 25, at 8 o'clock at the Elks' Club. This will be the first time that the cross-continent ability of the telephone has been demonstrated in this city and the New York Telephone Company, through the local manager, Ralph D. Clearwater, will have three hundred receivers installed in the club room for the audience which will witness this wonderful demonstration of the modern telephone.

Mayor Palmer Canfield will talk with the mayor of San Francisco and the presidents of the two chambers will also exchange greetings over the thousands of miles of wire between the two cities. Major Chandler will talk with an army officer at Presidio and to all of these conversations the audience will listen.

To people who have followed the improvements and refinements in the telephone since it was installed in this city will watch this demonstration with the greatest of interest. From the first crude instrument which was able to carry a message between Rondout and Kingston to the present efficient instrument has been a long step which has been conquered by modern engineering ability.

RACING AUTO HITS TELEPHONE POLE

Accident Due to Reckless Speeding on the Ashokan Boulevard While Returning Home From the Circus.

Three persons were more or less seriously injured on Friday evening near the Ashokan station when their automobile, which was racing with another machine, dashed from the road and collided with a telephone pole alongside the road. The three who were seriously injured and were brought to this city to the Benedictine Sanitarium are Mrs. L. C. Hildecker and Lester Cook, who reside near Windham and had come to Kingston Friday to see the circus. The driver of the car, M. C. Mattoon, and Leon Harris, a passenger, were uninjured except for shaking up and after staying overnight in the village were able to proceed to their homes today.

The accident occurred about 8 o'clock and from what could be learned from people who witnessed the accident, it was a case of high speed racing with another machine and in taking the turn just north of the station the driver lost control and the machine crashed into a pole. Dr. J. D. W. DuMond, who lives about an eighth of a mile from the scene of the accident, was summoned to the spot by a man on a motorcycle, and with the assistance of Miss Constable, a trained nurse, carried the injured into the house of Mrs. Silkworth, where they were taken care of until cars were secured and they were brought to this city and taken to the Benedictine Sanitarium.

Upon being examined by Dr. O'Leary at the Sanitarium, Mr. Hildecker was found to be the most seriously injured. He was suffering from severe cuts about his face and head and was severely bruised and may possibly be suffering from a fractured skull. Mrs. Hildecker was cut and bruised about the head and body, several teeth were knocked out and her right leg injured. Lester Cook, beside being cut and bruised, had two ribs broken. Mr. Mattoon, who drove the car, and Leon W. Harris were uninjured except for a shaking up. All suffered from shock to some extent.

The spot where the accident happened is just where the old state road joins the boulevard a few hundred feet north of the station. At this point there is a slight turn in the road. After striking the pole the machine partly turned over and turned about in the road, throwing the occupants from the machine.

"DONNYBROOK" IS DEAD.
Mr. Kraft's Irish Pony Was Impaled 20 Years Ago.

"Donnybrook," the well known full-blooded Irish pony owned by William R. Kraft, died on Friday. The horse was imported from Ireland twenty years ago by Mrs. John Carroll, a wealthy woman who was interested in horsebreeding, and "Donnybrook" was the sire of a long line of thoroughbreds. Mrs. Carroll turned him over to William Schryver sixteen years ago and he sold him to John E. Kraft for his son, William R. Kraft. The pony was a perfect saddle horse and a good driver; he was reliable with his owner but spirited and full of tricks with strangers.

The Rev. Edwin J. McCue, formerly pastor of St. Joseph's Church, became a great admirer of "Donnybrook," and endeavored to ascertain the whereabouts of a famous painter, Friday and Dr. W. J. Smith, the veterinarian, was called in. He could do nothing and the horse died during the afternoon. He was taken to Mr. Kraft's farm at Lake Katrine for burial.

CONDITIONS BAD IN MEXICO

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, May 20.—Conditions in the interior of Mexico are worse than they ever have been under the Carranza regime, according to confidential advices that have reached the state department. The reports which are from the agents of several governments and therefore withheld from publication, indicate that the de facto government is fast losing control and that unless something is done conditions approaching anarchy will prevail all over the republic.

The railroad strike has spread to all of the lines in the country. There is practically no train service at all. A few trains are moving sporadically and with no regard to schedule.

The real cause of the present situation is the low value of Carranza money. Even the soldiers in Carranza's army, according to the reports in the possession of the state department, are expressing great dissatisfaction because they are not being paid regularly. The railroad strike is over the wage question and there seems to be little chance of settling it satisfactorily.

A new element entered the situation here today when it became known that Eliseo Arredondo, ambassador designate of the de facto government, is having trouble with Carranza. Arredondo has visited Carranza three times for instructions of how to proceed with regard to inducing the American government to withdraw its troops.

All of these telegrams have gone unheeded. The ambassador designate has had no word of any kind from his government recently.

State department officials believe this is due to the fact that Carranza is dealing solely with James Linn Rogers, the department's special agent, who is with the first chief, Rodgers, has been given broad powers by the department in his dealings with Carranza. He has been instructed, however, to make it clear to the head of the de facto government that the United States forces will not be withdrawn until the Carranza commander has shown himself capable of suppressing bandit operations in northern Mexico.

Rodgers, it is assumed here, has done this and Carranza therefore has thought it useless to have Arredondo press the withdrawal question here further at this time.

Reports from Marathon that Col. Sibley's expedition is not to be withdrawn from Mexico could not be confirmed here early today. Officials said, however, that General Funston could keep these troops there as long as he saw fit without further consulting Washington. He is expected to advise the war department of his decision, however.

HARVEST DAYS IN IRISH PEAT BOGS

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, D. C., May 20.—Her revolutions may fail, disease may destroy her potato crop, and famine decimate her people, but one feature of Ireland remains constant—her vast peat bogs, which furnish a bulky but inexpensive fuel for the island's numerous poor. The National Geographic Society, from its Washington headquarters, gave out the following peat bulletin today:

"Nearly one seventh of the area of Ireland is bog land, unfit for cultivation, but this territory, nearly forty-five hundred square miles, yields an almost inexhaustible supply of cheap fuel which for centuries has kept hundreds of thousands from desperate suffering during the penetratingly damp cold of winter."

"Peat-harvesting is an important industry in the Irish lowlands, and one of the factors which commends it to the poor is that all the members of the family can contribute to the work in proportion to their full physical strength. The men can wield the spade-like slane, carving the turf into bricks, while the children carry the wet sod to places in the sun where it is left to dry for from four to six weeks. In the meantime the women are busy packing the dried product in big paniers slung over the backs of diminutive donkeys. These donkeys carry the peat to market, and sometimes, if there are more women than draft animals, the former will strap paniers across their own shoulders and aid in solving the problem of transportation."

"In some of the bogs, where the percentage of water is unusually high the 'harvesters' knead the decayed vegetation with their hands and feet until it is of sufficient consistency to be lifted out and placed in the sun."

"Peat, which is a composite of numerous aquatic plants and mosses oxidized in a moist atmosphere and compressed by water, after it has been thoroughly dried, burns much more quickly than coal, and it is considerably cheaper, twelve large-size bricks selling for an English penny (2 cents). In recent years numerous methods have been devised to improve this fuel of the bogs by shredding and then compressing the carbonized growth into briquets, which burn very much like coal. Mixed with crude molasses from sugar mills it is also used as a forage for cattle, while semi-successful efforts have been made to convert the vegetable fibres into a cheap grade of paper. Several processes also have been devised to distill from peat a commercial alcohol, a by-product of this manufacture being large quantities of ammonium sulphate, which is valuable as a fertilizer."

"The peat bogs of Ireland have been so persistently emphasized in all economic discussions of the Irish people as well as in the literature of the country that the average individual has come to think of the bogs as having a virtual bog monopoly, but as a matter of fact there are eighteen times as many square miles of such land in the United States and Canada as there are in Ireland, while Continental Europe's bogs aggregate an area as extensive as that of the French republic. Not all bogs produce fuel peat, however."

AIR RAIDERS DID LITTLE DAMAGE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, May 20.—Three German seaplanes raided the east coast of Kent early today.

Of the three casualties one was a soldier who was killed. One of the raiders was shot down off the Belgian coast while returning to the German base.

Announcement of the raid was made by the war office this afternoon. A number of bombs were dropped by the raiders.

In addition to the soldier killed, a woman and a seaman were injured. As soon as the raiders appeared fire was opened against them by high angle guns and British aeroplanes went aloft to give battle. When the German machines took flight they were pursued across the North Sea by British airmen.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, May 20.—A new feature was shown in the stock market at the opening today, with activity and strength of the leading copper issues. Kennicott rose ¼ to 66½. Anaconda ¼ to 86½. Inspiration ¼ to 46½, and Miami ¼ to 36½. Most interest, however, continued in Reading, which sold at the start from 103¼ to 104, against 103 at the close yesterday. It was in liberal supply and by the end of the first fifteen minutes was down to 102¼. Lehigh Valley opened ¼ higher at 81½. Great Northern preferred 1¼ to 122¼, Union Pacific ¼ to 138¼, and fractional gains were also made in Erie, Chesapeake and Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio and New York Central. Steel Common was in fairly good demand, making a gain of ¼ to 85¼. Studebaker advanced ¼ to 136¼, and Crucible Steel ½ to 84¼. The movements after the opening were generally narrow, with mixed changes from the opening range.

The final tone was irregular. The most important feature in the late hour was an advance of over 3 points in Canadian Pacific. Reading, after selling down to 101¼, rallied to 103¼. Lehigh Valley, which receded in the early trading, more than recovered the loss. Steel Common was in good demand, moving up to 85¼. Industrial Alcohol, after selling down to 155¼, rose to 158¼. Government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds irregular.

VEIL OF MYSTERY OVER BLACK SEA

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Berlin, May 20.—A veil of mystery covers the activities of the fleets in the Black Sea. Only once in a while we hear that a few steamers or sailing vessels have been sunk, or that warships bombarded the Turkish or Russian coast.

But what has become known leaves no doubt, that thrilling events have happened and are still happening on the ancient Pontus, Euxinus and that the often destroyed battle cruiser Goeben is successfully holding the whole Russian fleet in check with the aid of the small but swift Breslau.

"The whole world will be astonished when the censor permits the press to tell the story of the navy war on the Black Sea," Dr. Ludwig Ganghofer, the famous novelist and war correspondent, writes from Constantinople.

"Military reasons demand that secrecy be continued a little longer, but the veil may soon be lifted. I know what has happened and I can assure the folks at home that the German officers and sailors fighting on the side of the Turks have covered themselves with eternal glory and accomplished deeds which surpass all imagination."

"A few hints I am allowed to give. The former Goeben, now the Jawus Selim, has dashed through fire and death under the Crescent flag dozens of times since her celebrated escape from the harbor of Messina, at the beginning of the war. More than once the wonderful fighting ship has been severely damaged, but she has never received a mortal wound. The great cruiser is as fit as ever and only a few scars tell of the terrible battles she has fought."

"Last month certain orders were received which staggered even the fearless German officers. 'This enterprise is impossible, it will cost the Goeben,' they said, but the orders had to be carried out. 'Admiral Soukhon personally took command of the vessel and declared: 'If the Goeben has to go down, I want to be on the commander's bridge.'"

"When the Goeben left the Dardanelles all who knew what her mission was said: 'She will never return.' But after three days and three nights of nerve-racking suspense the battle cruiser came back with her glorious sword."

"She had gloriously solved the problem given her and escaped unscathed. What she did must remain a secret for the present, but I can say that dash was the most brilliant and astonishing naval feat of the present war."

MEAT PRICES ARE MAKING NEW JUMP

Wholesale Figures Tilted a Few Cents the Last Few Days—Some Green Vegetables Lower With Lack of Home-Grown Products.

Meat dealers have been given notice of another jump in the price of meats, wholesale prices prevailing today at the depots of the big packers in Kingston being from one cent to three cents higher a pound for beef and lamb. A price of $16 a hundred would not surprise one of the city meat men, according to a statement today, the scarcity of cattle and the increase in shipments of meat to the war zone being given as the causes for these new jumps.

Beef today is quoted at 14 1/2 to 15 cents wholesale which means that the retailer has got to get pretty nearly thirty cents a pound for the choicer cuts in order to be assured a profit. Lamb is 20 to 21 cents wholesale, there being a great scarcity in this line as no native lamb is yet available and the supply from distant points being small. Pork is 17 1/2 cents wholesale with indications of a further jump within a few days. It is said that the problem of prices is one that is seriously concerning many butcher shops.

In the line of green vegetables, prices continue unusually high for this time of year, wholesale rates being quite a bit higher than last year at this time, according to dealers. Potatoes, old and new, continue high in spite of increasing shipments from the south. Old potatoes are at $1.40 a bushel wholesale with $6.75 a barrel for new potatoes, barrels containing about two and one-half bushels. Head lettuce has been so high that little has been on the market. Today it was sold at $3 a crate wholesale but the crates contained but 18 to 20 heads on the average. Asparagus is cheaper with the home product appearing in quantity, $1.75 a dozen being the rate. Spinach is also plentiful, the wholesale rate being about 50 cents a bushel and retail about 20 to 25 cents a peck.

Onions and radishes, home grown, are cheap as is rhubarb. String beans are in the market, bringing $2.35 a basket wholesale, while some fine cucumbers were distributed this morning at $3.55 a crate. Celery is $3.25 a crate and some cauliflower has been on the market at $1.90 a crate.

So far the high cost of living has been approximately cut by fresh vegetables taking the place of meat, but this time is the worst of the year, between seasons, when the home grown things are hardly on the market. Another week will see the latter in increasing quantities and crowding the southern stuff off the boards by reason of its superior freshness and flavor to say nothing of the lower prices.

CIRCUS MAN WILL NOT FORGET CITY

He Assailed Thomas F. Linden of Tremper Avenue, and Was Arrested by Police—At Same Time Was Served with Summons in Civil Action, Which He Settled.

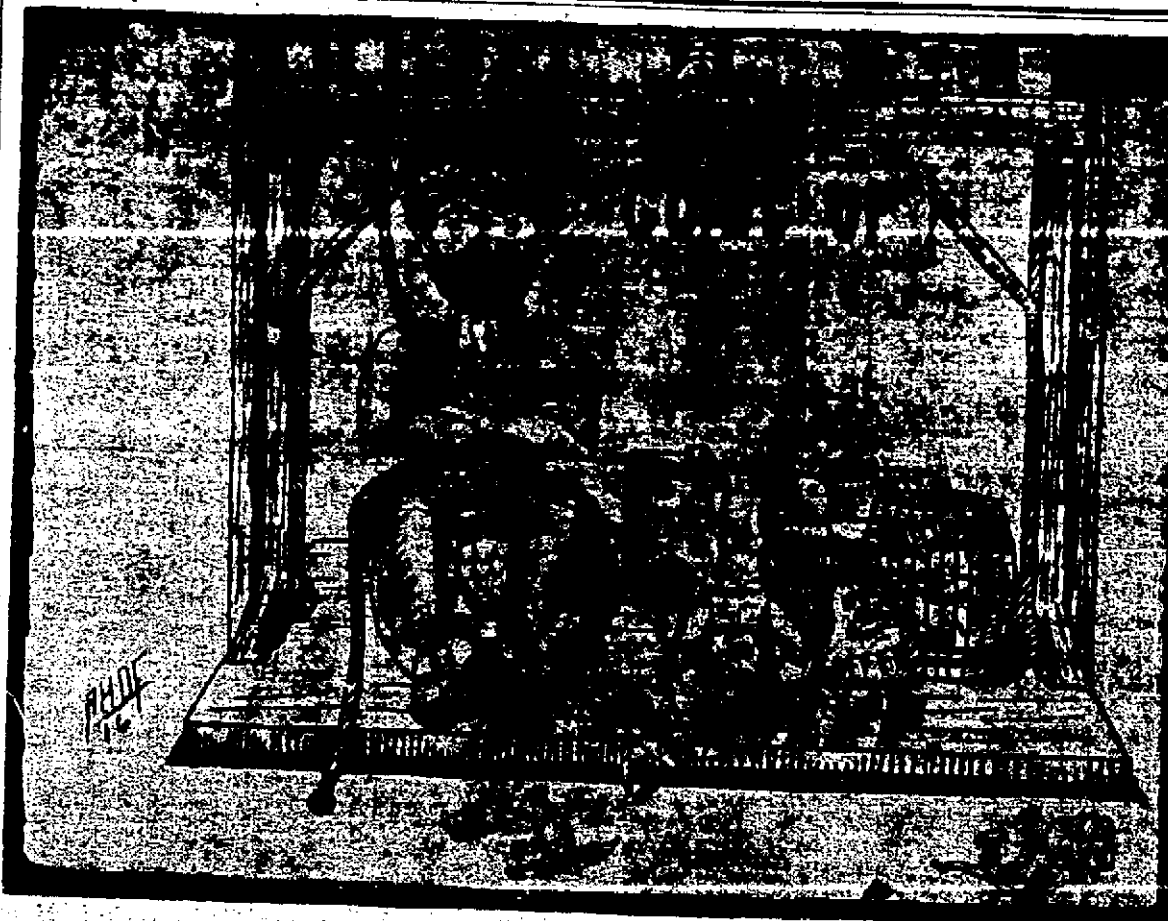

Benjamin Green, an usher at Barnum & Bailey's circus, will not forget Kingston in a hurry and at the same time he learned a rather costly lesson in the art of keeping one's temper, when he was arrested by the police on a charge of assault in the third degree preferred against him by Thomas F. Linden of No. 144 Tremper avenue.

At the same time that Green was placed under arrest he was served with a summons in a civil suit for damages brought in behalf of Mr. Linden. It seems from what could be learned that Mr. Linden and his wife and child attended the afternoon performance of the greatest show on earth, and at the close started to leave the tent. Green did not like the Lindens to leave the tent in the direction they were going and he grasped hold of Mr. Linden and pushed him back telling him to go out the other way. Mr. Linden advised him not to shove him around and then Green punched him in the face.

Owing to the fact that Mr. Linden had his wife and child with him he did not care to get mixed up in a fracas with Green and instead of returning the blow he sought Recorder Lang later in the afternoon and served out a warrant which was served on Green by Sergeant Murray and Handley. At the same time Mr. Linden interviewed Judge N. Frank O'Reilly and had the judge draw up a summons in a civil action for damages against Green.

This summons was placed in the hands of Mr. Clair and was served by him on Green at the same time that Green took the heavy hand of the law on his shoulders and a voice spoke to his ear that he was under arrest.

Later in the evening Mr. Green, with Mr. Linden and the same civil action was withdrawn and Mr. Linden withdrew the complaint of assault. In the third degree against Green.

U. S. TROOPS LEAVING MEXICO

By Telegram to The Freeman.

El Paso, Tex., May 20.—Troops of the Sixteenth U. S. Infantry have been ordered out of Mexico to take up border patrol duty and within a few days will follow the Sixth Cavalry back across the international boundary line. This was learned today while the Sixth Cavalry camped at Columbus waiting the orders that will take it into the Big Bend district.

The Langhorne-Sibley expedition is also coming back to the border. Major Langhorne's weary riders, after going 135 miles into Mexico, drew back into El Paso, 70 miles from the border, and effected a junction with Col. Sibley's main force. As soon as scattered detachments arrive at El Paso the return to the border will begin.

The fact that some American troops are leaving Mexico has already encouraged the Villistas and the long sought "Pancho" himself is reported to have taken the field again in the district around Parral and Chihuahua. To this fact is attributed a sudden tightening of the military censorship at Columbus. All news from General Pershing's main forces is concealed.

The brief American campaign in Mexico exhausted the supply of cavalry horses and buyers are industriously seeking remnants for Uncle Sam's soldiers. One buyer collected 600 horses with great difficulty. He blamed the European war for the scarcity of horses, stating that he had previously shipped 235,000 abroad.

"If we had a real war we would have to take our cavalry and artillery horses from wagons on the streets," he said. "I was officially informed by the French government that 10,000 horses had been used in one battle in Europe. That would be impossible in this country."

WHO WILL TALK AT THE HELLO SMOKER

Mayor Canfield Will Greet Mayor of San Francisco. Major Chandler Will Talk With an Army Officer and President Leighton Will Talk.

The transcontinental telephone demonstration and smoker arranged for the Chamber of Commerce will be held on Thursday evening, May 25, at 8 o'clock at the Elks' Club. This will be the first time that the cross-continent ability of the telephone has been demonstrated in this city and the New York Telephone Company, through the local manager, Ralph D. Clearwater, will have three hundred receivers installed in the club room for the audience which will witness this wonderful demonstration of the modern telephone.

Mayor Palmer Canfield will talk with the mayor of San Francisco and the presidents of the two chambers will also exchange greetings over the thousands of miles of wire between the two cities. Major Chandler will talk with an army officer at President and to all of these conversations the audience will listen.

To people who have followed the improvements and refinements in the telephone since it was installed in this city will watch this demonstration with the greatest of interest. From the first crude instrument which was able to carry a message between Boston and Kingston to the present efficient instrument, the telephone has been a long step which has been conquered by modern engineering ability.

RACING AUTO HITS TELEPHONE POLE

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Accident Due to Reckless Speeding on the Ashokan Boulevard While Returning Home From the Circus.

Three persons were more or less seriously injured on Friday evening near the Ashokan station when their automobile, which was racing with another machine, dashed from the road and collided with a telephone pole alongside the road. The three who were seriously injured and were brought to this city to the Benedictine Sanitarium are Mrs. L. C. Hildecker and Chester Cook, who reside near Windham and had come to Kingston Friday to see the circus. The driver of the car, M. J. Mattoon, and Leon Harris, a passenger, were uninjured except for a shaking up and after staying overnight in the village were able to proceed to their homes today.

The accident, which could be learned from people who witnessed the accident, occurred at a high speed race with another machine and in taking the turn just north of the station the driver lost control and the machine crashed into a pole. Dr. J. D. DuMont, who lives about an eighth of a mile from the scene of the accident, was summoned to the spot by a man on a motorcycle, and with the assistance of Miss Constable, a trained nurse, carried the injured into the house of Mrs. Silkworth, where they were taken care of until cars were secured and they were brought to this city and taken to the Benedictine Sanitarium.

Upon being examined by Dr. O'Leary at the Sanitarium, Mr. Hildecker was found to be the most seriously injured. He was suffering from severe cuts about his face and head and was severely bruised and possibly he was suffering from a fractured skull. Mrs. Hildecker was cut and bruised about the head and body, several teeth were knocked out and her right leg injured. Chester Cook, beside being cut and bruised, had two ribs broken. Mr. Mattoon, who drove the car, and Leon W. Harris were uninjured except for a shaking up. All suffered from shock to some extent.

The spot where the accident happened is just where the old state road joins the boulevard a few hundred feet north of the station. At this point there is a slight turn in the road. After striking the pole the machine was turned over and turned about in the road, throwing the occupants from the machine.

"DONNYBROOK" IS DEAD.

Mr. Kraft's Irish Pony Was Impaled 20 Years Ago.

"Donnybrook" the well known full-blooded Irish pony owned by William R. Kraft, died on Friday. The horse was imported from Ireland twenty years ago by Mrs. John Carroll, a wealthy woman who was interested in horsebreeding, and "Donnybrook" was the sire of a long line of thoroughbreds. Mrs. Carroll turned him over to William Schryver sixteen years ago and he sold him to John E. Kraft for his son, William R. Kraft. The pony was a perfect saddle horse and a good driver; he was reliable with his owner but spirited and full of tricks with strangers.

The Rev. Edwin J. McCue, formerly pastor of St. Joseph's Church, became a great admirer of "Donnybrook" and endeavored to ascertain the whereabouts of a famous painting of the horse made by Mrs. Carroll, but was unsuccessful. Mrs. Carroll had bequeathed her estate to the church when she died, but the portrait has disappeared.

During the past two years "Donnybrook" has been in the care of Ed. Feilich, who has charge of the livery at the Eagle Hotel. The horse became partially paralyzed on Friday and Dr. W. J. Smith, the veterinarian, was called in. He could do nothing and the horse died during the afternoon. He was taken to Mr. Kraft's farm at Lake Katrine for burial.

CONDITIONS BAD IN MEXICO

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, D. C., May 20.—Conditions in the interior of Mexico are worse than they ever have been under the Carranza regime, according to confidential advisers that have reached the state department. The reports which are from the agents of several governments and therefore withheld from publication, indicate that the de facto government is fast losing control and that unless something is done conditions approaching anarchy will prevail all over the republic.

The railroad strike has spread to all of the lines in the country. There is practically no train service at all. A few trains are moving sporadically and with no regular schedule.

The real cause of the present situation is the low value of Carranza money. Even the soldiers in Carranza's army, according to reports in the possession of the state department, are expressing great dissatisfaction because they are not being paid regularly. The railroad strike is over the wage question and there seems to be little chance of settling it satisfactorily.

A new element entered the situation here today when it became known that Eliseo Arredondo, an ambassador designate of the de facto government, is having trouble with his government. Arredondo has wired to Carranza three times for instructions of how to proceed with regard to inducing the American government to withdraw its troops. All of these telegrams have gone unanswered. The ambassador designate has had no word of any kind from his government recently.

State department officials believe this is due to the fact that Carranza is dealing solely with James Linn Rogers, the department's special agent, who is with the first chief powers of the department in its dealings with Carranza. He has been instructed, however, to make it clear to the head of the de facto government that the United States forces will not be withdrawn until the Carranza commander has shown himself capable of suppressing bandit operations in northern Mexico. Rogers is it assumed here, has done this and Carranza therefore has thought it useless to have Arredondo press the withdrawal question here further at this time.

Reports from Marathon that Col. Sibley's expedition is not to be withdrawn from Mexico could not be confirmed here early today. Officials said, however, that General Funston could keep these troops there as long as he saw fit without further consulting Washington. He is expected to advise the war department of his decision, however.

HARVEST DAYS IN IRISH PEAT BOGS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, D. C., May 20.—Her revolutions may fail, disease may destroy her potato crop, and famine decimate her people, but one feature of Ireland remains constant—her vast peat bogs, which furnish a bulky but inexpensive fuel for the island's numerous poor. The National Geographic Society, from its Washington headquarters, gave out the following peat bulletin today:

"Nearly one seventh of the area of Ireland is bog land, unfit for cultivation, but this territory, nearly forty-five hundred square miles, yields an almost inexhaustible supply of cheap fuel which for centuries has kept hundreds of thousands from desperate suffering during the penetratingly damp cold of winter."

"Peat-harvesting is an important industry in the Irish lowlands, and one of the factors which commends it to the poor is that all the members of the family can contribute to the work in proportion to their full physical strength. The men can wield the spade-like slane, carving the turf into bricks, while the children carry the wet sod to places in the sun where it is left to dry for from four to six weeks. In the meantime the women are busy packing the dried product in big paniers slung over the backs of diminutive donkeys. These donkeys carry the peat to market, and sometimes, if there are more women than draft animals, the former will strap paniers across their own shoulders and aid in solving the problem of transportation."

"In some of the bogs, where the percentage of water is unusually high the harvesters knead the decayed vegetation with their hands and feet until it is of sufficient consistency to be lifted out and placed in the sun."

"Peat, which is a composite of numerous aquatic plants and mosses oxidized in a moist atmosphere and compressed by water, after it has been thoroughly dried, burns much more quickly than coal, and it is considerably cheaper. Twelve large-size bricks selling for an English penny (2 cents) in recent years numerous methods have been devised to improve this fuel of the bog by shredding and then compressing the carbonized growth into briquettes. Peat is much used in the sugar mills it is also used as a fertilizer. Mixed with crude manures for sugar cane, while semi-successful, the full efforts have been made to convert the vegetable fibres into a cheap grade of paper. Several processes have been devised to distill from peat a commercial alcohol, a by-product of this manufacture being large quantities of ammonium sulphate, which is valuable as a fertilizer."

"The peat bogs of Ireland have been so persistently emphasized in economic discussions of the Irish people as well as in the literature of the country that the average individual has come to think of this island as having a virtual bog monopoly, but as a matter of fact there are eighteen times as many square miles of such land in the United States and Canada as there are in Ireland, while Continental Europe's bogs aggregate an area as extensive as that of the French republic. Not all bogs produce fuel peat, however."

AIR RAIDERS DID LITTLE DAMAGE

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, May 20.—Three German seaplanes raided the east coast of Kent early today.

Of the three casualties one was a soldier who was killed. One of the raiders was shot down off the Belgian coast while returning to the German base.

Announcement of the raid was made by the war office this afternoon. A number of bombs were dropped by the raiders.

In addition to the soldier killed, a woman and a seaman were injured. As soon as the raiders appeared fire was opened against them by high angle guns and British aeroplanes went aloft to give battle. When the German machines took flight they were pursued across the North Sea by British airmen.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, May 20.—A new feature was shown in the stock market at the opening today, with activity and strength of the leading copper issues. Kennecott rose 1/2 to 56 1/2, Anaconda 1/2 to 86 1/2, Inspiration 1/2 to 46 1/2, and Miami 1/2 to 36 1/2. Most interest, however, continued in Reading, which sold at the start from 103 1/2 to 104, against 103 at the close yesterday. It was in liberal supply and by the end of the first fifteen minutes was down to 102 1/2. Lehigh Valley opened 1/2 higher at 81 1/2. Great Northern preferred 1/2 to 122 1/2. Union Pacific 1/2 to 133 1/2, and fractional gains were also made in Erie, Chesapeake and Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio and New York Central. Steel Common was in fairly good demand, making a gain of 1/2 to 85 1/2. Studebaker advanced 1/2 to 136 1/2, and Crucible Steel 1/2 to 84 1/2. The movement after the opening was generally a draw, with minor changes from the opening range.

The final tone was irregular. The most important feature in the late hour was an advance of over 3 points in Canadian Pacific Reading, after selling down to 101 1/2, rallied to 103 1/2. Lehigh Valley, which receded in the early trading, more than recovered the loss. Steel Common was in good demand, moving up to 85 1/2. Industrial Alcohol, after selling down to 155 1/2, rose to 158 1/2. Government bonds unchanged; ray and other bonds irregular.

HE TOOK MEDICINE FOR A SORE TOE

But it Proved Too Strong and Landed William McGinnis in Jail for First Time in a Year—Sent Back to Alms House to Work on Farm.

William McGinnis, 51 years old, who has been a guest at the City Home on Flatbush avenue as he had a sore toe, decided to leave the confines of the institution on Friday and take in the circus. He accordingly walked into town and from then on his memory was somewhat hazy. This morning when arraigned before Recorder Lang on a charge of public intoxication, he told of the events of the day as far as he could remember them.

Said he in reply to questions that he must have had only four or five beers, but he later confessed that he had started the day's celebration on with a hooker of whiskey. That proved a foundation for the jag that followed for the beer that he later drank did not care to make the close acquaintance of the whiskey and the results were such that William finally decided to lay down and sleep off the accumulation of joy juice he had disposed of. He selected the stone wall at the top of the Broadway hill as the most comfortable place he could find and was soundly sleeping when Policeman Charles Murphy strolling that way heard his snores and took him up to jail.

This morning William was repentant and said that he had not been arrested in a year. As he had not drank any beer or whiskey in some time it must have gone to his head, said he.

Superintendent Edmonston, of the City Home, needs help to work the city farm it is evident that Recorder Lang took that in consideration when he discharged William and advised him to hurry back to the institution. There is no doubt but William's service as a farm laborer are more needed than if he was confined in the county hotel doing nothing but while away the time.

How to Steal a Cow. One of Daniel O'Connell's clients, who was acquitted upon a technical point of stealing a cow at night, was asked by O'Connell how he managed to steal the fattest cow in the park.

"Why, then, I'll tell your honor the whole secret of that, sir. Whenever your honor goes to steal a cow always go on the worst night you can, for if the weather is very bad the chances are that nobody will be up to see your honor. The way you'll always know the fat cattle in the dark is by this token—that the fat cows always stand in the most exposed places, but the lean ones always go into the ditch for shelter."

A Brazilian Household Pet. Brazilians train a snake called the giboia as a rat catcher. It is fifteen feet long, is harmless to the human being, becomes quite a household pet, is lazy in the daytime, but at night roams about the house in quest of its prey—rats. These animals it promptly kills by twisting their necks. When Brazilians have to pass from room to room in the dark they first put on their slippers. It would not be pleasant to plant one's bare feet on a cold, slimy snake of that size.

Boiling Water. Rapidly boiling water cooks no faster than that which barely bubbles, but only evaporates faster.

The Flavor That Appeals RED MONOGRAM AND SPECIAL STOCK

Is it true that the six cylinder crank shaft, due to its being longer than the four, is more subject to breaking? There is very little difference as to the durability of the four and six cylinder crankshafts. It is true that in some cases the six cylinder crank shaft is longer than that of the four cylinder, but while it is not over 50 per cent longer, the impact, or rather force of the explosion causing the turning movement, is 50 per cent less in two motors of the same power, one a four and one a six. Also as between the six cylinder crank shaft having a bearing in the center, as most of them do, and the block cast four having bearings only at the ends, the unsupported length of the crank shaft is smaller in the six than in the four.

What is the proper way to clean a spark plug? Most people believe they have cleaned a spark plug properly when they have cleaned the spark gap points. The proper way is to remove the porcelain or insulator and clean it thoroughly. The carbon deposit on the porcelain frequently permits a short circuit between center rod and the engine metal.

What is the horsepower of a two cylinder motor with five inch bore and six and a half inch stroke at 750 r. p. m.? It is impossible to give the exact brake horsepower of a motor by making calculations from formulas based upon bore, stroke and r. p. m. The reason for this is that the manifold design, valve size and general structure of the motor have so much to do with the matter that the power must be measured on a block to get anything like accurate results. An approximation can be made, however, by formula, assuming that the motor is in fairly good condition and that the design is approximately correct. On the basis of this formula your motor will develop about twenty horsepower.

Expert Advice For the Automobile Owner

Queries and Replies Covering Matters of Importance to the Man Who Runs a Car

Can you tell me what causes my six cylinder motor to smoke? Am using heavy oil, have good compression, valves tight, new rings, oil pump and splash. The pipes are not choked. Have the glass balls with adjustable spark gap any merit to them? They fit on top of spark plugs, and cable connects them.

In order for a motor to smoke oil must get into the combustion chambers by leaking past the pistons. It may be that you are using too heavy a grade of oil or that the rings are not as tight as you think they are. Perhaps you are using too much oil. It might be caused by the troughs being too full of oil. If you fail to find anything wrong with the oiling system you might try some kind of leak proof rings on the pistons, especially at the top of the pistons. Also see what the result of using a medium grade of oil is. Regarding the visible sparking plugs, these can do no more harm to the engine, and they certainly have merit in indicating that the firing is as it should be.

Will you please explain the positive and negative of batteries?

When an electric current goes through any nonmetallic liquid which is capable of carrying electricity the liquid is chemically decomposed, resulting in the splitting up of the chemical combinations. This is called electrolysis. One part of the disassociated liquid is liberated at the point where the current enters and the other part where it leaves. If we pass a current through water, as an example, the oxygen gas is freed where the current enters and hydrogen gas where it leaves. The conductors that lead the current in and out of the liquid, such as the electrolyte of a battery, are called the electrodes, and the one at which the current enters is the positive electrode and that at which the current goes out the negative.

Will you please tell me how to temper a spring?

The exact heat treatment to be given a spring steel depends on the composition. However, assuming that the steel is a .95 carbon steel, which is a grade of steel used generally for springs, the treatment after shaping or coiling, as the case may be, is as follows:

First.—Heat to 1,425 degrees—1,475 degrees F.

Second.—Quench in oil.

Third.—Reheat to 400 degrees—600 degrees F. in accordance with the degree of temper desired, and then cool very slowly.

The higher the drawing temperature (third operation) the lower will be the yield point of the material. On the other hand, if the material be drawn at too low a temperature it will be brittle. A few practical trials will locate the best temper for any given shape or size.

You should also remember that the heat treating of springs is usually entrusted to the spring maker, and unless absolutely necessary for the work to be done, and by some one who knows this kind of work, it is advisable to refrain from doing it. Inexperienced persons are likely to ruin the material.

Queer Name of Georgia Town.

A town in Georgia rejoices in the strikingly original, but somewhat ambiguous designation of Nameless. The name was given from the fact that in a list of several hundred names submitted to the post office authorities not one was found satisfactory.

I can advance the magnets of my car either one-quarter or all the way and not change the speed of the motor in the least. Is the timing correct?

From what you say it is evident that the control mechanism between the steering post and the breaker box of the magnets or the battery timer has slipped or become disconnected somewhere, so that when you move the advance and retard levers on the top of the steering wheel it does not really advance or retard the spark. If the spark were advanced all the time the motor would be very likely to kick back when cranking. If, on the other hand, the spark remains retarded all the time the engine would be very likely to overheat when running.

I want to lighten the connecting rods and pistons in my car by boring holes in them. Can you tell me the size, location and number of holes to be made?

We do not advise the boring of holes in either pistons or rods, as it would be of little advantage. In drilling holes in pistons, however, the common practice is to make them one-half inch in diameter. Either two or three rows are drilled, depending upon the length of the piston skirt. It is usual for them to have a pitch of about one and one-half inch. That is, the distance from center to center of the holes should be one and one-half inches ordinarily. The rows should, of course, be staggered, and in a piston of a diameter of about three and one-quarter inches twenty-four holes could be put. In doing the work precaution should be taken against cracking or breaking the thin shells of the pistons when drilling the holes. Fill up the inside of the piston with lead or make a block of wood to fit within it, thus making it possible to drill the holes safely.

How can I stop the rattling in the brake bands on my car?

Possibly the brakes need relining. Also shim up the suspension points so that there will be no lost side motion. It is advisable to use small coil springs to keep the suspended parts from hitting the brake drums.

What is the most effective ratio of diameter to length of a solenoid magnet when the travel of its armature does not exceed one-half inch? Also, can you give me a simple formula and an example of its application for winding a solenoid when the pressure to be exerted is forty pounds working through a distance of one-half inch, the amperage, voltage and size of wire used being variable?

There is no definite relation between the length and diameter of an electromagnet for any service. If an engineer were designing a mechanism requiring a magnet such as you mention he would probably determine the size and length by experiment, as such a problem would be difficult of proper solution in any other way. A good rule to follow, however, is to make a solenoid three times the length of the maximum travel required of it. This is very general and might not be the best ratio for your purpose, so that with this as a basis to begin experimenting you could soon discover what the best size of magnet would be. For the pull of forty pounds it is certain that the coil would have to be over an inch in diameter.

My car has been run about 4,000 miles. The timing gears, which are of the spiral type, hewed at first and now thrash. How can I remedy that?

The second cylinder leaks oil, and the valves need grinding very often. The rings are in good shape, and I keep the oil level at the proper height. Could a twisted connecting rod cause this? It has a two point ignition system, and when using both plugs I notice a distinct knock.

Replacement of the gears, which are probably worn, is the best thing to do. They might be loose on their shafts, causing excessive noise.

The trouble with your second cylinder looks like a worn piston or one that is slightly under size. If the rings are in good shape try a new piston of correct diameter, or you might fit some form of anti-leak rings to it. The trouble will doubtless be eliminated. It does not seem that there is any fault with the connecting rods.

It is well to retard the spark slightly when you use two plugs as compared with its position when using only one to a cylinder. When you use two plugs to a cylinder they fire simultaneously in opposite sides of the combustion space and thus serve to propagate the flame a little faster than if only one plug is used. This is likely to have the same effect as if you advanced the spark a little, for it serves to put the maximum force of the expansion, due to combustion, at a slightly earlier time.

To secure best results from a motor should the valves open and close on exact dead centers of the crank shaft or should they open and close before or after dead center is reached?

It is a very rare instance where a valve is opened or closed at exact center. However, there is a six in which the inlet valves open at exact upper center.

SUNDAY GAME AT MCVEY'S FIELD

Kingston Plays Colored All Stars on Delaware Avenue Grounds—Red Monograms at Tivoli—Other Games.

One of the fastest games of baseball of the season is scheduled for Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at McVey's Field when the recently organized Kingstons will cross bats with the Colored All Stars of Albany. The Stars are considered the fastest aggregation of colored ball tossers in the vicinity of Albany, while the Kingstons is made up of some of the fastest amateur players along the Hudson valley. So far this season Kingston has won two straight games and lost none. It expects to keep its record clean on Sunday by registering another win.

The Red Monograms of this city on Sunday afternoon will clash with the fast Tivoli team at Tivoli. The local team will make an excursion to Tivoli on the yacht Livingston leaving Rondout at 12:30 o'clock that afternoon. It is expected that they will be accompanied by a number of local "fans," who enjoy a good game and also a sail on the river.

What promises to be a fast and exciting game of baseball will be staged on the Andrew street grounds Sunday when the Colonials, formerly the All Stars, will cross bats with the Mystics. Norton and McCauley will do the honors for the Colonials and Doyle and Mann will be in the points for the Mystics.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

 New York, May 20.—About the only way to settle the question as to who introduced golf in America seems to be to arm the rival factions with machetes and let it be the survival of the fittest.

Ever since golf developed into a national sport in these free and gall-or-ce-yus United States, different folks have been claiming the credit for bringing the game from foreign shores while different municipalities are scrapping over the honor of being the first part of America in which sounded the ominous cry of "Fore!"

It seems from the information at hand, that one John Reid, Sr., of Yonkers, N. Y., is credited with being the official parent of American golf. But there are many who rise up and say that Reid wasn't the first citizen in this fair land to import the foreign sport. The official birthday of organized American golf has been fixed as November 18, 1883, but the unofficial date is along in 1832.

White Sulphur Springs, which is a town in West Virginia, avers that the golf game was played there long before the Yonkers folks even thought of swatting the elusive globe. 'Tis said in White Sulphur Springs that somewhere along in the latter part of the 70's or the early 80's a few British subjects settled there. They became homesick quite rapidly and decided that the best cure was golf. So they went back home for a supply of balls and clubs, laid out a six hole course and began playing.

The Virginians, it is said, did not have any art, but they had a hole in the ground, and they used it for a golf ball.

It was not until the late 19th century that the game of golf was introduced into the United States.

For all kinds of perennials and hardy plants. We have a very large assortment. Get them in now.

CIVIC DIVISION A PARADE FEATURE

There are great possibilities in store for Kingstonians in making the civic division of the Memorial Day parade a huge demonstration in favor of preparedness, the same as other cities are doing. The latest suggestion being that employees of the factories, shops, stores, and other business places organize for the purpose of taking part in the parade.

The civic division will be for those who are not members of organizations which have decided to take part in the parade and is preeminently a preparedness demonstration. The suggestion that such a division be formed has met with hearty approval in all parts of the city and there are many men and women who do not belong to any organization, and others whose organizations have not decided to parade, who have expressed a desire to take part in the Memorial Day march.

It has been suggested that employees of business firms, factories, stores, shops, etc., can organize and decide on the matter of taking part in the parade within a few minutes during the noon lunch hour or after the close of the day's work, and the action of such employees if they decide to parade can be communicated to Major George Chandler, who will be the grand marshal of the parade, or to Captain Frank L. Meagher, secretary of the committee on plan and scope.

More than a week remains in which to make arrangements which will give Kingston a parade far bigger and more successful than any which has been held here in the past.

ANDERSON TO TRY HARD TO WIN INDIANAPOLIS RACE.
 Gil Anderson, who won first honors in the 250 mile Astor Cup race in New York last fall, is anxious to add fresh laurels to his crown by winning the 200 mile international sweepstakes race to be run at the Indianapolis Speedway on Memorial Day.

Anderson, while not a veteran in the auto racing game, has acquired a reputation for skillful driving and will be one of the most closely watched contestants in the big race. This year the race has reduced from 500 to 300 miles and track records are expected to fall.

School for Officers.
 Major George Chandler of this city will be the instructing officer at a school for the officers of the Poughkeepsie, Hudson, Catskill and Kingston National Guard officers, which will be held at the armory in this city tonight. This school closes the series of instructions which have been held in Kingston under the supervision of Major Chandler during the 1915-1916 indoor drill season. All officers in the above named cities holding a commission in the Tenth Regiment are expected to attend the event this evening.

uate in Belle Air Mountain in the village of Pine Hill, town of Shandaken, county of Ulster and state of New York, which said tract of land was formerly (in 1774) part of great lot number 8 of Hardenburgh patent later (1817) known as parts of lots numbers 87-88 and the west half of lot number 89 in Richard Lansing tract and which aforesaid tract of land hereby conveyed is bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a stake and stone on the west side of a small stream, corner of a tree, and running thence south fifty-five degrees east twelve hundred and fifty feet to the northwesterly corner of a plot of three acres, heretofore conveyed by said Smith to Charles C. Sloane, running thence southwesterly at right angles with said last mentioned line and along said Sloane's northwesterly boundary two hundred and eight feet, eight and one-half inches; thence southwesterly at right angles with said last mentioned line and along said Sloane's southwesterly boundary six hundred and twenty-six feet one and one-half inches; thence northwesterly at right angles with said last mentioned line, and along said Sloane's southwesterly boundary two hundred and eight feet eight and one-half inches to the northwesterly boundary line of Grovesmont, thence south along said northwesterly boundary line thirteen hundred forty-one feet four and one-half inches to a cheap stone across a small brook tree; thence south thirty-five degrees west eighteen chains and fifty links to a heap of stones, thence north five degrees west fifty chains to a yellow birch tree near the brook above mentioned and thence down the same, as it runs and winds and turns northeast twenty-two chains to the place of beginning. Containing ninety-six and one-quarter acres more or less. Being (except said three acres thereof conveyed to said Sloane) the same premises conveyed to said Smith by Benjamin Judd and others by deed dated September 24, 1894, recorded in Ulster county clerk's office in book 319 of deeds at page 350 on September 20, 1894.

Also all the right, which was there conveyed to said Smith to pipe and draw water from other adjacent lands then being owned by the grantors of said deed of September 24, 1894.

Excepting, however, from the premises above described all that certain lot or parcel of land situated at Grovesmont on Belle Air Mountain south of the village of Pine Hill, in the town of Shandaken, county of Ulster and state of New York, several times bounded and described as follows:

One beginning at the southeasterly corner boundary of the land of Charles C. Sloane at Grovesmont, and running thence southwesterly in a straight line along said Sloane's southern boundary line two hundred and eighty-eight feet eight and one-half inches to the point seventy-five feet southwesterly in a straight line (parallel with said Sloane's said southerly line) from the southwesterly corner boundary of the so-called "Hiram Robinson Farm" (said curved line being at the nearest point fifty feet from the southwest boundary line of said Robinson Farm) and running along the westerly border of a proposed road to beyond Fern Spring, as shown on a map of said premises made by William B. Peters, surveyor, dated 1896, and in possession of said Smith; and thence northwesterly in a straight line along said boundary line between said Grovesmont and "Robinson Farm" one hundred and forty-two feet to the place of beginning.

Containing about one acre of land with right of house and over said proposed road when finished and also over Grovesmont avenue to and along the northwesterly line of said boundary line, and running along an opening in the wall, on to said "Robinson Farm."

The other of said two lots beginning at the southeast corner boundary line of said Grovesmont one hundred and fifty feet southwesterly from the southeast corner boundary of said Grovesmont, and running thence southwesterly at right angles with said boundary line two hundred and eighty-eight feet eight and one-half inches; thence southwesterly at right angles with said last mentioned line and along said Sloane's southwesterly boundary line two hundred and eighty-eight feet eight and one-half inches to the place of beginning.

Containing one acre with one spring of water under or near two large yellow pine trees not far from the center thereof. The premises above described and sought to be foreclosed herein are subject to the following encumbrances contained in a mortgage of conveyance and maintain one water right to place and maintain one water right from said spring hereby conveyed by deed of said Charles C. Sloane, dated May 10th, 1916, and in a certain proposed building on the site of certain proposed building of said party of the second part to be foreclosed release and the perpetual right of said party, his heirs, assigns and assigns, employees, grantees and the assigns of the premises of the said party of the first part to be foreclosed herein are subject to the mortgage of said Charles C. Sloane, dated May 10th, 1916, and in the Ulster county clerk's office so far as said right of water may affect it at all, said premises or part thereof.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 20, 1916.

There may be communities which have escaped the prejudicial effect of legislation intended to benefit them, but they will be hard to find. The well-meant endeavors do not always reach their mark. New York State escaped the usual onslaught of regulatory laws which custom decreed the legislature should have enacted last winter, but the reason why foolish legislation was conspicuous at Albany by its absence can be traced easily to the overwhelming defeat of the proposed new Constitution last November. Forcing a Constitutional Convention on the State cost the proposed Constitution thousands of votes, but the forcing process was in line with the past legislative attitude that for every civic or economic ill, either real or fancied, a law can be drawn which will cure everything. Such laws are hastily drawn without consideration of the subject affected and as soon as the law ornaments the statute books there is relief among the lawmakers and promoters. The danger and the nonsense of the general regulatory habit is pointed out by James A. Emery, general counsel of the National Association of Manufacturers, who shows that a series of anti-trust laws regulating not only the operation and relationship of industrial combinations to each other, but the conduct of their employees during industrial disputes, undertaken to limit the judicial protection for life and property under such circumstances, was inspired, shaped and presented by representatives of non-industrial constituencies with the least understanding and experience with the stake in the critical problem at issue. On the same day the president of the Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' Protective Association called attention to the fact that a board of conciliation and arbitration appointed to settle disputes between employer and employee is composed of a preacher, a lawyer and a professional uplifter, but without a representative of either capital or labor, the most voluble regulators are those who have least at stake.

Strike agitators never spend their time in heralding the voluntary increases in the pay of employees which are announced from time to time by big business concerns throughout the country. It is only when wage increases have been gained through the medium of strikes that they busy their tongues in telling people that the laboring man is beginning to come into his own. Apparently no figures have been compiled to show the total amount of voluntary increases in wages and the total amount resulting from strikes, but the frequent announcements published during the last year would appear to show voluntary increases totalled more than the total increases demanded by prospective or actual strikers. The big industrial corporations of the country have been increasing wages steadily without any demand, and to their long list is now added the name of a public service corporation—the Public Service Railway Company of Newark, N. J., whose voluntary addition to its pay roll will amount to $262,000 a year. The United States, and the entire world in fact, contains more corporations that barely maintain an existence than those which have a fattening surplus at the close of each business year. Such is the experience of individuals in business, and corporations are managed by men of varied qualifications, just the same as unincorporated business houses. Demands predicated on actual facts are a rarity whenever the professional agitator is around.

Moving pictures have at last reached the stage where the producing companies are being merged into twenty-five million dollar corporations which will be directed by financiers of the Thomas F. Ryan and H. H. Vreeland type. These mergers are a good indication that the picture business is now regarded by the big financiers as having acquired the same stability which has resulted in fortunes from the manufacture and sale of kerosene and gasoline, sugar, tobacco, automobiles, steel, copper and other staples. In all of these businesses, as in the picture business, there have been failures and the business will continue to be marked by unsuccessful ventures. The formation of every big corporation has been marked by complaints of classes of men engaged in one or more branches of the business, and no big business can be conducted to the satisfaction of everyone, but the newest complaint against the picture companies has the advantage of novelty in addition to justifiable basis. It comes from the authors, who will soon act on a report favoring the formation of the Authors' Union and the affiliation of that Union with the American Federation of Labor. For furnishing the scenarios, the authors receive from $500 to $1,500; ordinary five reel films based on such scenarios do not cost over $15,000 to produce and most of them have a guaranteed distribution of $35,000. Play-writing royalties before moving pictures supplanted stage-acting paid better than the present scenario rates, and since the authors made moving pictures successful by becoming pioneers in scenario writing, they should receive an adequate return for their labor.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"What are you doing now, Jim?"
"Any easy mark I can come across."
—Baltimore American.

"A sixteen page letter from Tom! Oh, what does he say?" "He says he's going to call this afternoon."
—Life.

Harry—"I bet I can make a worse face than you can." Dorothy—"You ought to be able to. Look at the face you've got to start with."
—Judge.

"Johnny, don't you know it's wrong for a little boy to fight?"
"Yes'm. But Willie doesn't know it, and I'm proving it to him."
—Washington Star.

"Do you think it will be possible to settle all international differences hereafter without war?" "No," replied Senator Sorghum. "At best we're bound to be a war of words."

George B. Cox Dead.
By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Cincinnati, O., May 20.—George Barnsdale Cox, long Republican leader in the city, county and state, died early today. He had been in a critical condition for several days from pneumonia, following a stroke of paralysis sustained about four weeks ago.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.
Thoughtful.
A man was walking along the street and he saw a house on fire. He rushed across the way and rang the bell. After some time a lady, who proved to be slightly deaf, appeared at the door.

"What did you say?"
The man began dancing up and down. He pointed above. "I said your house is on fire! Flames bursting out! No time to lose!"
"What did you say?"
"House afire! Quick!"
The lady smiled. "Is that all?" she said sweetly.
"Well," replied the man hopelessly, "that's all I can think of just now."
—Argonaut.

Very Ready.
Charles M. Schwab, congratulated on his munitions work, said in Loretto:

"To succeed in munitions work or in anything else you must be ready—as ready as Jake."
"Jake and Joe were brothers, and they were both very hard up. One day a man called at their rooms and asked for Jake—and Joe, thinking the visitor was a dun, said: 'I'm afraid you can't see Jake.' 'Oh, I must see him,' said the caller, 'without fail.' 'Madam,' said Joe, 'but Jake left town yesterday.' 'Pshaw,' said the visitor, 'that's too bad. I wanted to pay him $100 I owe him, and I'm going abroad today.' 'Oh,' said Joe, 'that's easy. Jake came back this morning.'"
—New York Times.

An Insufferable Boozier.
John L. Sullivan heckled a heckler in a temperance address in Chicago: "You say alcohol's poison," the heckler asserted, rising, "but are you aware, sir, that a German in Milwaukee has lived a year on beer alone?"
"That," said Mr. Sullivan, "is certainly as it should be. Any man who lives on beer ought to be compelled to live alone."
—Chicago Record-Herald.

All Interest.
Thomas P. Gore, the blind senator from Oklahoma, spoke of the problem of interest and duty in this country recently at a dinner of the New York Credit Men's Association and told the following story to illustrate practices which Controller of the Currency John C. Williams has unearthed: "A man down in my own state went into a little bank in a country town and gave him a note for $100 for three months. The bank deducted interest and gave him $75.00. A friend noticed he was looking pre-occupied and also glum. 'What's the matter, Jack,' he asked. 'I was just thinking,' said Jack slowly, 'how glad I am I didn't give my note for a year. I wouldn't have got a cent!'"
—Philadelphia Star.

A Matter of Course.
Fola La Follette said in a discussion of the divorce evil at the suffrage lunch rooms in New York: "Too many women accept divorces as a necessary evil, as a matter of course, as a thing bound to come. A lawyer asked a young woman witness the other day: 'Are you unmarried?' 'Good gracious, no!' she answered. 'I ain't even been married yet!'"
—New York Telegraph.

Hard on the Pastor.
To test the safety of the church steeple a country minister climbed it with a scaling ladder—a feat requiring no small amount of nerve. He was proud of his achievement, and at a meeting of his parishioners, and at a meeting of detail his described with a wealth of detail his feelings while aloft. "When I reached the top and saw the huge golden weathercock gleaming in the sunlight, what do you think I did?" An old farmer, who looked the picture of boredom, hazarded a guess. "You cheated the weathercock," he said. "What do you mean, sir?" sharply demanded the minister. "Why, you did it out of the job of crowing," the farmer replied.

HIGHLAND.

Highland, May 19.—George Minney of Cobleskill was a visitor on Friday with Capt. and Mrs. R. H. Decker.

Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin of Poughkeepsie were in town Friday. They will move to this place in a few weeks.

George Malloch from Florida arrived at Highland last week for a stay through the summer. In the fall, he says, he expects to return to warm climate for the winter, as usual.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelsey Staples had guests the past Sunday from Newburgh.

The Missionary Society of the Methodist Church here held their regular meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Miss Adeline Terwilliger on White street. They had a very fine meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Miller of Poughkeepsie were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Terpening. Mrs. Philip Schantz was a shopper in Poughkeepsie on Wednesday.

Mrs. Vincent Jordan entertained Miss Anna Davis, state councillor of D. of A. Wednesday evening, when here for her official visit to Ida McKinley Council.

Mrs. Fred Miller of New York City has been spending some time here with her mother, Mrs. Almira Freer, on Main street.

Miss Nina Hickman of New York was the week end guest of Frederick Van Nostrand and daughter, Miss Adah, at their home on Church street.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Upright were visiting relatives in Clintondale last Sunday. They motored there in their new Ford car.

Mrs. J. C. Coddington, wife of the Rev. J. C. Coddington, pastor of the First M. E. Church here, was appointed a delegate to attend the fall convention of the Foreign Missionary Society, which will be held in October, at East Orange, N. J. This appointment was made at the convention held in this place at the M. E. Church here, May 12.

Convention of Christian Endeavorers was held Monday and Tuesday in the Presbyterian Church and was very interesting. A great many delegates were present and song service by Miss J. Wing was especially fine. Her solos were delightful.

Hugo Bartholemey and sister, Mrs. Henry Hoyt, of New York City, came on last Friday. They came up in their limousine, and on their return Mrs. J. C. Coddington accompanied them to their city home. These people will come to their summer home on Maple avenue the first part of June. Their house is at present being renovated throughout, and also the exterior painted. S. W. Ferris is doing the work.

Dorothy Steller and Emily Miller have gone to Lake Mohonk for the summer. They were employed there last season and were delighted with the place, and they gave entire satisfaction, and we are positive they will, to the best of their ability, try and sure to please all again.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Coddington left on Tuesday morning, bright and early, with Dr. Becker, in his touring car for Saratoga to attend the general conference of Methodists. We are positive they will enjoy every moment of it, for several practical and suggestive ideas will be given, and many discussions as to what has been done and what ought to be done, and many useful methods for future work will be evolved from this conference. We predict for them a most profitable and delightful time.

Mrs. J. C. Dedrick has returned to her summer home on Maple avenue, after spending several days in New York city on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schantz will have as guests next week Mr. and Mrs. J. Krom of Jersey City. Mrs. Krom is a sister of Mrs. Schantz.

James Stewart of Milton avenue has been spending a short time in the metropolis.

Mrs. Edward Rhoades has been quite ill at her home with an attack of tonsillitis. Glad to state she is improving.

Presbyterian people held their missionary meeting in their church last Wednesday. They had a very interesting program. Mrs. M. G. Young was in charge, and all spent a profitable afternoon.

Mrs. E. B. Harrington of this place visited friends in Clintondale last week.

Mr. and Mrs. George DuBois and children from Beacon visited the parents of Mr. DuBois on Maple avenue recently.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Elting entertained guests from New Jersey last week.

Last Tuesday there was a goodly number from here attended the opera house and witnessed the production of "The Garden of Allah," and all were delighted with it.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Colyer have had as their guest recently, F. Randall of New York City.

Dr. G. S. LaMoree and wife have gone to Baltimore to spend some time with their daughter and husband, the Rev. and Mrs. William Wilcox, and while there will take in the beauties of some other southern cities.

Jerome Yates is looking fine. He will spend some time here, but he states that he expects to return to California in the early fall. He has purchased an automobile, and we expect to see him enjoying himself by taking trips through the country.

Mrs. Harcourt Pratt left here this week for the west. She is to visit her sister and brothers, who reside in different parts of the west.

Mrs. Thomas Leonard of New York is here for a short stay with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Brown, on Vineyard avenue, and also her husband's people, Mr. and Mrs. James Leonard, on Main street.

Martin Upright is the owner of a Ford runabout now. We expect to see him and his wife taking various trips through the season.

Mrs. Albert Leroy of Lakehurst, N. J., has been visiting among friends in this place the past week.

Mrs. Clarence Leroy has returned here after spending several weeks in New York City with her people.

Mrs. George Freer has returned home after a long sojourn in the metropolis with her people. She was accompanied by her daughter, Ruth. They had a very delightful time while there.

Mrs. Chester Atkins and little daughter, Ruth, have returned to their home on Willow avenue after a delightful visit among relatives and friends in New York city for over a week.

Miss Nellie McConnell, bookkeeper for Atkins Brothers at this place, spent the week end at her home in Marlborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Miller spent the week end with relatives in Kingston, and had a very enjoyable time.

Miss Emma Paltridge of this place had as her guest last Saturday Miss Elsie Abel of West Park.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Green from here visited Mr. and Mrs. Drake at West Park the past week.

Porter Lacey was a guest of friends in New Paltz last week.

Maudie Morris of Milton avenue entertained Miss Mildred Brown of Newburgh for the week end.

Mrs. Mar. Ellen Townsend and son, Edward, were guests recently of Mrs. J. Mackey in West Park.

Charles Carpenter and wife were guests last Sunday of Dr. and Mrs. Howard Carpenter in Poughkeepsie.

We saw Mr. and Mrs. A. Winthrop Williams in Marlborough last Sunday. They were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Edward Quimby of that place.

Mr. and Mrs. Edison Dimsey of North road had an addition to the family membership last Saturday evening of a little son, and we hear they are delighted.

Mrs. S. G. Carpenter left this week for a trip to Berkeley, California, where she will visit her sister, Mrs. Lester Van Nostrand, who is very ill. She expects to be absent from home several weeks.

Eastern Star people held their regular meeting Monday evening. Not a very large attendance owing to other affairs taking place on same evening. They will receive their D. D. G. M. and A. G. L. on Monday evening, May 29, at which time they expect quite a number of visitors.

Miss Belle Brinkerhoff was a shopper in Poughkeepsie Tuesday.

Mrs. George Eyett was a business visitor in Poughkeepsie on Tuesday, also Mrs. R. H. Decker.

Miss Carrie Gillman of Poughkeepsie was in this place Tuesday, calling on several friends.

Women's Foreign Missionary Society held their convention in First M. E. Church here for all day Friday and Saturday.

The delegates from many places, over 100 registered. The district superintendent, Rev. F. H. Deming, presided at the morning session and conducted devotional exercises. Afternoon session was especially interesting, as several ladies from out of town were the speakers and they held the people spellbound. In the evening, the pastor, Rev. J. C. Coddington conducted the service, which was of great interest. The music was fine. Miss J. Wing and George Canfield rendered a duet in a very artistic manner and was spoken of as a fine musical production. Another feature greatly appreciated was a play showing by twelve people in costume the work in China. Miss Kipp from India gave a very inspiring address on people and work in that place. Those people who visited were all given dinner and supper at church parlors. The ladies catered to 104 delegates for noon meal, also 75 for supper. There were many who remained over night and were entertained most hospitably at the various homes of M. E. people. Take it altogether it was a very delightful convention.

Miss Laura Harcourt has returned home after spending some time in Mt. Vernon, but returns again to stay with her brother and children.

The Epworth League held a social in the M. E. Church Friday evening, May 19, which we were informed, is called a due social, when all members are requested to come or send their dues for the year.

Some of the women suffragists expect to go to New Paltz on Wednesday, May 18, to attend a convention. There will be a session in the forenoon also in the afternoon. The speakers will be from New York. They look forward to a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Marsh and Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Metcalf were to act as hosts and hostesses Tuesday evening at Grange. On account of the storm the meeting was postponed, and we hear will take place in two weeks and the program which was to have been given then will be put on at next meeting.

Oregon Strong for Hughes.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Portland, Ore., May 20.—Oregon Republicans have overwhelmingly registered their approval of Justice Charles E. Hughes as the 1916 standard bearer in the only state in which the justice's name appeared on the ballots. It was estimated today that Justice Hughes won the state from Senator Cummins and former Senator Burton of 100 by about two votes to one. Both Burton and Cummins made personal campaigns in the state. An indication of how strong the Hughes sentiment is seen in the returns from the first 82 precincts of Portland. They gave Hughes 432, Cummins 111, Burton 110.

Great Aerial Activity.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Salonica, May 20.—There is great aerial activity over the battle front in Macedonia and numerous combats have taken place in the air within the past forty eight hours. It was announced today that a squadron of French aviators have bombarded a number of Bulgarian encampments on the Greek frontier in retaliation for an earlier raid of the Germans when the camps of the Allies at Kilikich, Bourmadja, Topalin, Zeitinlik and Carassouli were shelled.

Lynch Not Shot.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, May 20.—The American embassy understands that Jeremiah C. Lynch, the United States citizen convicted of participating in the Irish rebellion, has not been shot.

GOOD TIME TO BUY
MONUMENTS
And Gravestones

BUDS on trees are now in full blossom—flowers and shrubbery will soon be at their best, and plans for spring beautifying of burial plots are in the minds of many who will read this message of "preparedness" for Memorial Day.

We are splendidly prepared to assist in the task of beautifying the resting places of departed relatives and friends with superbly beautiful, skillfully executed, artistically designed Monuments, Headstones and Markers, and to induce purchasing now instead of later, we shall make only on every stone we have on hand. This is a genuine, bonafide offer which may not again be made in years. We realize that many people have for a long time been considering the purchase of a gravestone of some kind and have put it off repeatedly on account of the European war, excessively "high cost of living" and other cogent reasons. But under our liberal price-reduction offer, Monuments and other stones are placed within the financial means of every prospective purchaser.

Mr. Retailer, a Word,
Please!

One thing you pay rent for is your store window.
Do you make it pay dividends?
Does it show a profit?
It should. If it does not it is your fault.

Here is one way to make it pay—a mighty certain way.
Read the newspapers. When you see articles you have in stock advertised, show them.

Show them at the time the advertising is running.
Tie your store up to the dealer's newspaper advertising.
That will bring the newspaper reader into your store and that means business.

FLAG'S PROPER TREATMENT.

Reminder of Observances on Special Occasions Issued to Militia.

A useful little reminder of the proper treatment for Old Glory is contained in a folder issued by the Sons of the Revolution of this state to the Tenth Infantry, National Guard. With Memorial Day, Flag Day, Bunker Hill anniversary and the Fourth of July soon at hand, the matter is well worth publishing. On Memorial Day, the flag should fly at half staff from sunrise to noon and full staff from noon to sunset. Following are the proper observances in connection with the display of the flag:

It should not be hoisted before sunrise nor allowed to remain up after sunset.
At "Retreat," (sunset) civilian spectators should stand at "attention" and uncover during the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner." Military spectators in uniform are required by regulation to stand at "attention" and give the prescribed salute at the last note of the "Star Spangled Banner." At "Retreat," during the playing of the national air or the call "To the color," sounded by field music when no band is present, the flag should be lowered but not allowed to touch the ground.

When the national colors are passing on parade, or in review, the spectator should uncover; if walking halt; if sitting arise and stand at "attention."

When the national and state or other flags fly together, the national flag should be placed on the right.
When the flag is flown at half staff as a sign of mourning, it should so remain from "Reveille" and until "Retreat" on the day of the funeral.

In placing the flag at half staff, it should first be hoisted to the top of the staff and then lowered to position, and preliminary to lowering from half staff it should be hoisted to the top.

On land, under no circumstances, should the national flag displayed on a staff, be dipped or lowered for a salute.

The national salute is twenty-one guns. The salute to the union is one gun for each state.

ATWOOD.

Atwood, May 20.—Services on Sunday were not very well attended. It is rather discouraging for Rev. Wikamp.

Stephen Krom, Jr., of Albany spent Sunday at his home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Markle and children, Mr. and Mrs. C. Davis, and daughter, visited at the home of Edward Markle of West Hurley on Sunday.

Miss Lillian Van Demark of Kingston spent Saturday evening and Sunday at her home.

Mr. Kelly of East Hartford, Conn., has returned home after spending a few days at the home of B. Johnson.

Mrs. Lizzie Markle of Stone Ridge visited her sister, Mrs. S. D. Dubs, recently.

Mrs. Ada Bush and children of The City spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. V. Dubs.

Miss C. N. Freer and Herman Wood of Kerhonkson spent Saturday evening and Sunday at the home of G. Wood.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hasbrouck visited relatives in Port Ewen on Sunday.

Mabel Krom of Poughkeepsie is spending some time at her home.

SOUTH ROUNDOUT.

South Roundout, May 20.—Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cockfair spent Sunday with Mr. Cockfair's sister, Mrs. L. Grand Becker, on Hoffman street, Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Dunn are the guests of Mrs. Dunn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Peters, at New York.

Miss Annie Shisker has returned home from a trip to New York.

Ira Hyde, pilot on the tugboat John H. Cordis, and Harry Kellerman, the mate, spent Sunday at their homes here.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Feldman and little son, John, and Miss Theresa Feldman of Eddyville and John Burton of Kingston were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Stout on Sunday.

We were pleased to have Mr. Phillips visit us again to lead and assist with the singing, after an absence of several weeks. Mr. Phillips has just recovered from a severe attack of rheumatism.

A little daughter has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fardee on Second street.

The KITCHEN CABINET

As disasters are sudden, triumphs are unexpected. The spirit of victory is as rapid as the genius of ruin. To get up and go on when you're knocked down is to get somewhere.—Chas. Sandberg.

FOOD WITHOUT COOKING.

All fads in feeding must be taken with a grain of salt. The old story told of the Irishman who protested against the "animal food" prescribed by his physician, because as he explained after he had tried it for a few days, the bran wasn't so bad, but he couldn't manage the hay and oats. Of course in foods with no cooking "animal foods," such as fresh meats, are eliminated. Persons who make experiments are apt to be over enthusiastic because of successful results in a short time. One needs to give any sort of a bill of fare a trial of six months or a year before the real benefits are noticed. It would seem that this method would solve the everlasting problem of what to have for dinner, providing one didn't die of the monotony of it.

The following menu, varied little, has been found to be perfectly sufficient for a man doing office work. For breakfast oranges or grapefruit, and egg beaten and added to a glass of milk. Half a dozen prunes, as many walnuts and a small bowl of ground wheat. The wheat, ground, as it comes from the threshing.

For dinner, a salad of celery, lettuce or water cress. An egg beaten in a glass of milk, a small bowl of wheat, a piece of fresh apple, an apple or two and butter used on the wheat.

For luncheon or supper, half a dozen nuts, three or four figs, a glass of milk and an apple.
The bill of fare may be varied by a variety of nuts, fruits and vegetables, bananas, peanuts and different kinds of cheese. These foods, with a quart of milk a day will be found sufficiently sustaining for light labor.—It is well to state that this food is to be carefully masticated. One should sleep in a room with plenty of fresh air and have exercise daily in the fresh air as well as a daily cold sponge or plunge with vigorous rubbing. It will be found after using this diet for months at a time one may partake of a hearty meal, eating everything from appetizer to dessert with no ill effects.

REVISITS FAMILIAR SCENES.

Tony Denier Warmly Greeted by Folk of Circus World.

One of the happiest figures at the circus grounds Friday was Tony Denier, formerly the Humpty Dumpty man known to thousands as an original clown in the sawdust arena, who was greeted by a number of former associates in the circus world. The fact that Denier's luck has been on the downside and that he is now at the circus house, did not affect the warmth of the greetings given him. A genuinely pathetic note was manifested in the exchanges of many old acquaintances with the bent old figure of the man who in his day was the greatest fun-maker of them all. Tony stayed to both performances.

Evidence Brought in Case.

A new piece of evidence in the $50,000 breach of promise suit brought by Miss Lucille Tompkins, of Poughkeepsie, against Edward Yale, aged 63, has come to light in the birth of a bouncing baby boy to the plaintiff.

Good and Perfect Gifts.

FINAL TRIBUTE TO GEO. L. WACHMEYER

Eulogy by Pastor Schmidt-konz of the Spring Street German Lutheran Church at Funeral of Aged and Respected Member.

The funeral services of George L. Wachmeyer, the veteran Strand furniture dealer, were held Friday evening at the late residence, No. 11 Hone street, and were attended by the friends of the deceased and members of the Spring Street German Lutheran Church, of which he was long an honored member. The Rev. A. Schmidt-konz, pastor of the church, officiated at the services, and also this morning when a short service was held at the house at 10 o'clock. The interment was in Montrose cemetery and the bereaved were members of the family. At the evening service Pastor Schmidt-konz spoke first in German, taking as his text Psalms, 37th chapter, 5th verse, "Commit thy way unto the Lord; trust also in Him, and He shall bring it to pass." Pastor Schmidt-konz then delivered a eulogy in English taking his theme from second Timothy, 4th chapter, 7th and 8th verses, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith; henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that day; and not to me only, but unto all them that love His appearing." Pastor Schmidt-konz said:

Beloved Friends: The lips of your dear father are closed to this world forever. But let us listen to what they would say to us in this hour if they could move and we could understand. A dying Christian would tell us: I am the handiwork of the Almighty, the wise and good God. He created body and soul and joined them together for a life of immortal joy. But I was conceived and born in sin, and O, what a burden has life in this world turned out to be on account of sin—labor and trouble, anxiety and sorrow, illness, death and the grave. If I sought refuge from my sin and all the sad consequences of sin—in my own wisdom and work, I were indeed hopelessly lost, but my trust is in God, the merciful and all powerful, for I trust in Jesus, who taketh away the sins of the world and has taken away all my guilt also. God is reconciled unto me and I am at peace with Him.

I lay me down in peace and sleep. By dying I go to rest, and I shall awake again on the glorious day of resurrection, to see God and my Savior and all my loved ones, in light and life and joy forever.

To those dying in this manner we may apply at their departure from this life the triumphant song of St. Paul: "I have finished my course, I have kept the faith; henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that day; and not to me alone, but unto all them also that love His appearing."

"I have finished my course," I have accomplished, through the grace and power of God, the work of my life. The life of the deceased has not been trifled away, as so many lives are. Poor as he had come to this blessed country, he sustained himself by hard labor at his trade, and by his earnest and faithful work established a prosperous business.

There have been few more industrious, more successful and more contented citizens than our departed brother, whose name the records of our city will always delight to mention.

We may truly say: He finished his course; he walked the path which God in his providence had marked out for him; till God released the weary pilgrim. Your husband and your father, now sainted, as we hope, leaves you the heritage of a good name, which is more illustrious than gold or silver.

But, by the grace of God, we are entitled to proclaim over the coffin of your beloved father also these words: "I have kept the faith." What faith? The faith in himself and in his moral perfection? Indeed not. "I have kept the faith" means the genuine Christian faith, the apostolic faith laid down in the holy scriptures, and professed in the doctrines of our Lutheran Church.

This was also the faith of our departed brother. To keep this faith he, and with him several others, who have already passed to the other world, organized our German Lutheran Trinity Church, went through all the labors and troubles and afflictions of establishing a church on the sound basis of apostolic truth. If his heart clung to his business, it cleaved still more to the church of Christ, and he was willing to devote his time and money and counsel to the interests of his congregation, which he assisted in building two churches. He served his church in various ways, as deacon, trustee and elder, and was sent to represent his congregation at synodical conventions when the congregation connected itself with the Evangelical Lutheran Ministerium of the State of New York, in the year 1854. Mr. Wachmeyer was sent as its first lay delegate. He was a light and a pillar of our congregation, and everybody put the greatest confidence in him.

And as he was a dutiful church member, he also conducted himself as a devout Christian with his family and in his daily walk. He and his spouse were not ashamed of making their home a Christian home, where the word of God and the prayers could be heard, and the books and periodicals of Zion might be read.

Thus our brother kept the faith. Moreover, he died in this faith. This I can confess openly, as I was with him in his last hour. Therefore, by the grace of God, we are entitled to proclaim over the coffin of our departed father also these words of our text: "Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that day; and not to me alone, but unto all them also that love His appearing."

The life of faith and righteousness has its blessings in some measure already in this world. The Lord crowned our deceased brother with many blessings. He reached an age to which only few people attain. The Lord fulfilled to him what he promised in the 91st Psalm: "With long life I satisfy him, and show him my salvation." He was granted to enjoy the love and tender care of his children and children's children, who were delighted and thankful, for every year that was added to the old age of their beloved father. They surely fulfilled the fifth commandment, "Honor thy father and thy mother." May the promised reward rest upon them: peace and prosperity and a long life.

Another blessing which our departed brother was granted to enjoy was to grow old with the faithful and loving companion of his life, the now deeply afflicted widow, who walked with him and shared with him the joys and sorrows of life for 65 years.

We feel today the deep sorrow of the sorely afflicted mother and share with her the grief that fills her heart. But we know that she has the sure hope of everlasting life and for her also the hour of redemption is drawing nigh, when her sorrow shall cease, and her tears shall be wiped away; when she shall meet him again for whom she now mourns.

Our departed brother has experienced the love and mercy of God in this life. But there is another blessing, the crown of righteousness laid up in heaven for all true believers. Everlasting life and immortal glory is the crown of righteousness bestowed upon the children of God for Christ's sake in whom they lived and died.

This, then, is the crown which we trust, our departed father has received, and which he will fully receive in the morning of the resurrection. This must be your joy in this present sorrow, our comfort in grief.

He has departed from our congregation here to join the congregation above; he left your family here to meet its sainted members there; he quit his earthly toil to enter into the rest of God's people; he has been removed from the field of battle to mingle with the triumphant host.

There is a land of pure delight.

Where saints immortal reign.

Eternal day excludes the night.

And pleasures banish pain.

CATSKILL RUNNERS FINISH ROAD RACE

Y. M. C. A. Lads in Spirited Road Relay Bring Challenge to Kingston Y. M. C. A. to Better Time if Possible.

The long-anticipated road relay race of the Catskill Y. M. C. A. Juniors was held this morning from that village to Kingston and the thirty odd youngsters taking part covered the distance in two hours and forty minutes which is considered good time in view of the going. The runners were paced by automobiles and were in fine shape at the finish in this city.

Paced by a dozen automobiles containing other participants in the relay, Robert Whittaker arrived at entrance to the Y. M. C. A. on Broadway at exactly 11:35 o'clock and handed over his message to General Secretary Beckwith. The message was as follows:

"Catskill Y. M. C. A. extends hearty greetings to Kingston Y. M. C. A. The Catskill boys challenge the Kingston boys to relay a message to Catskill in the same time our boys have relayed a message to Kingston."

The message is signed by Secretary L. T. Wood of the Catskill Y. M. C. A.

The Catskill Runners.

The runners were: Stetson Harding, Charles Stokes, Lyle Olmstead, James Decker, Edward Goldstein, Elmer Overbaugh, Andrew Overbaugh, George Moon, Spencer Tanner, Clarence Smith, Joseph Savers, Fred Van Orden, Ambrose Day, David Cairns, Fred Spahn, James Pousant, Floyd Jump, Philip Bliss, Vernon Plusch, Robert Whittaker, Leroy Yager, George Decker, Alvin Simmons, Pierre Baptiste, Claude Day, Ralph Sherman, Sheridan Melan, Cecil Daniels, D. Hollinger, Joseph Kelly and John Conklin.

It is understood that the Y. M. C. A. boys of Kingston will accept the challenge and endeavor to better the time of their Catskill visitors. The latter were entertained with a plunge in the big swimming tank after which they returned to their homes by automobile.

Nelson Marriage Annulled. Judge Hasbrouck this morning granted an interlocutory judgment annulling the marriage of Lillian E. Dunn Nelson and Benjamin F. Nelson, which was tried before him last week. The plaintiff is under age and the action was brought in her behalf by her mother, Emma Depew. The parties were married at Long Island City on August 23, 1913, and the defendant now resides at Astoria, Long Island. The annulment was asked on the ground of fraud. Judge N. Frank O'Reilly appeared for the plaintiff; the defendant was not represented.

Conlin Divorce Suit.

A final hearing was had this morning before Judge Hasbrouck in the suit for divorce by Jane Conlin against Edwin Conlin, which has been heard regularly almost every week for some time. Only one witness was examined—Alderman John Remus, who testified that the reputation of one of the plaintiff's witnesses for truth and veracity was poor and he would not believe the witness under oath. Decision in the case was reserved.

PURVIS SUIT FOR SEPARATION

An action for separation brought by Eliza Jane Purvis against Richardson Purvis on the ground of non-support and cruel and inhuman treatment was tried before Judge Hasbrouck at the special term of the supreme court at the court house this morning.

The Purvises were married October 8, 1879, and have two children, both of whom are over 21 years old. Mr. Purvis is a sidewalk layer and is employed only for part of the year.

According to Mrs. Purvis's statement, her husband for a number of years has come home drunk every Saturday night and sometimes often, and when in that condition has carried a lamp through the house, threatening to set the house on fire; has threatened to injure her and has called her indecent names in the presence of the children.

Purvis has no intention of opposing the suit, and a separation had been practically agreed on by the parties and their attorneys when the matter came before Judge Hasbrouck, who said that under the statement of Mrs. Purvis her husband ought to be sent to jail. The judge asked what Purvis earned and Mrs. Purvis said her daughter supported her. To this statement, Judge Hasbrouck said it was unjust to ask the daughter to support her mother entirely without the help of the husband.

"I know Purvis and he ought to be ashamed of himself," said Judge Hasbrouck. "He ought to have enough pride left to get money together and take the cure."

"He took the pledge, your honor," said Robert G. Groves, counsel for Mrs. Purvis.

"That was only absent treatment," said Judge N. Frank O'Reilly, who appeared for Purvis.

Judge Hasbrouck said he would grant a decree directing the payment of $5 a week by Purvis to the support of his wife. Good behavior might lead him to modify the decree later, and if he did not pay the money he would consider that phase of the case later.

But any man with half an eye would have spotted the player for a hard drinker. He even had it on his breath. Murphy finally left town without his man.

This just shows to what means managers will go in their anxiety to sell a player for a good price and make some profits for the club. There are even cases where batting averages are padded to give the impression players are sluggers, thus making them tempting bait for big-league scouts.

New York, May 20.—All Bellevue Hospital mourned today for Miss Irene Hyland, the young dietitian, who for six years has seen to it that each patient got just the food that it was necessary for his recovery, is to leave on Saturday, May 20, for the battle front in France. She is the first woman dietitian to volunteer for service, and she will go with the Harvard Medical School Unit in the British Army Hospital Service.

Miss Hyland is a Canadian, a graduate of Toronto University, and for some time has been anxious to go to the front. She asked to go with a Toronto University unit, some time ago, but there was no place for her, as she is not a trained nurse.

She was delighted a few days ago, when told that the Harvard unit, which leaves Saturday on the Andania, of the Cunard line, would be glad to have her.

Her duties will be to supply food and supervise its preparation for patients cared for by the unit. She has had the same task for all of Bellevue Hospital.

FORCED TO BE SECRET

Big League Scouts Must Do Their Work Under Cover.

Bush Managers Concealed All Sorts of Ways to Boost Assets—Batting Averages Padded to Make Players Tempting.

Many good stories are told by big-league scouts and about them. Jim Murphy, former scout for the Chicago Nationals, tells one which shows the value of keeping under cover. The Marion (O.) club had a player it was trying to peddle off to the big leagues. The tip finally reached the Cubs that here was a splendid player for the top rung. So Jim Murphy went down to look him over.

On the day he arrived he took his seat in the grandstand, unobserved, and according to his custom immediately began asking questions about the youngster.

The fan on his right happened to be a keen rooster, so Murphy opened up on him. The talk finally led around to the man the Cubs were after. "What kind of a player is So and So?" inquired Murphy.

"Bill Smith" (name faked for obvious reason), exclaimed the fan. "Oh, Bill's a wonderful fielder, when he leaves the booze alone," was the unexpected answer. It is almost needless to say Murphy took the next train back home. He had learned all he wanted in that one short sentence.

On another occasion Murphy was investigating a player up in Wisconsin. The manager of the team was doing his best to sell the "star" for a big price, but he knew his man was a hard drinker and tried to conceal the fact. So he introduced Murphy to the player, and then started to take the party on a tour of the saloons in town.

Every time a drink was ordered he tipped the wink to his player and he would order a cigar, much to the amazement of the bartender. He would instinctively reach for the bottle which the player generally ordered, as Murphy noticed with an inward smile.

And every time said player asked for a cigar the manager would nudge Murphy and exclaim, "See that? He's as steady and temperate as they make them." But any man with half an eye would have spotted the player for a hard drinker. He even had it on his breath. Murphy finally left town without his man.

This just shows to what means managers will go in their anxiety to sell a player for a good price and make some profits for the club. There are even cases where batting averages are padded to give the impression players are sluggers, thus making them tempting bait for big-league scouts.

Four Games Should Have Been Recorded as "No-Hit" Performances—Ball Lost in Sun.

Babe Adams has pitched four one-hit games in his career that he thinks should have gone as no-hit games. Once with Denver a fielder lost a ball in the sun and it went for a hit. Again with Louisville the same thing happened. In the National league he held Cincinnati to two infield taps that liberal scorers might have registered as errors.

The Buttermilk House

How a Trust Was Run by a Rich Young Man. By M. QUAD.

Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Did you ever hear how a hotel came to be called the Buttermilk House? It was first called the Mountain House. But a trust in buttermilk was smashed there, and that changed the name.

When the hotel had been running for a couple of years the buttermilk craze spread from east to west, and it soon found its way to the Mountain House.

There was only one man within ten miles of the Mountain House who saw money in buttermilk, and his name was Stebbins. He bought five cows, a big churn and cans, and he delivered buttermilk to the hotel in gallons and charged 25 cents for every gallon that he delivered.

Away off in New York city was young Carroll Harper, who held a situation in his wealthy father's bank. He was an industrious young man instead of a dawdler. He was anxious to learn the banking business, and, though rich in his own right, he stuck to his work like some of the employees who were getting salaries of only $20 a week. By and by a crisis came—that is, young Harper found his appetite gone, his nerves all aquiver and his ambition about faded away. He went to a doctor, and after being questioned and thumped and pawed over the doctor looked him in the face with sternness and said:

"Go west, young man! Go west, sir!" "But why?" was asked.

"To breathe in great chunks of ozone and drink a gallon of buttermilk every day and to come back here in about sixty days feeling as well or better than you have in the past ten years."

The doctor, who had heard of the Mountain House and had sent three or four invalids there, advised the young man to make straight for that spot and to order a supply of buttermilk as soon as he had registered. His advice was heeded, and one morning the young man descended from the stage and entered the hotel. The place was off the railroad by fifteen miles.

They generally find out all about you very soon at a country hotel, and it was scarcely two hours before it was generally known to the landlord and among the guests that Carroll Harper had a financial and social standing in the big city in the east. It was also known to Mr. Stebbins, and when he called to take the order for buttermilk he raised the price from 25 cents to double that sum because he was dealing with a rich young man.

"Isn't that double what the others are paying?" he was asked.

"Oh, it's a little more," was the reply, "but you are rich and can afford it. What is a quarter a day to a man of millions?"

"But it strikes me as extortion."

"Well, you can take it or leave it. I am the only one around here with buttermilk to sell, and I can put any price on it I like."

The young man who was the victim of an extortioner planned to get even. He took the landlord into his confidence, and there was a conspiracy to smash Mr. Stebbins' trust.

After a ten mile auto ride down the valley and back only one family was found so situated that they could help Mr. Harper carry out his plans. This family was composed of a widow and a strapping daughter. They owned and worked a little farm together, but they did not even have one cow nor any outfit with which to deal with the buttermilk question. In a conversation the young man had with the strapping girl on the doorstep he asked:

"Can you and your mother milk and take care of six or seven cows?"

"Yes, or ten of them," she answered. "Can you drive a horse and wagon?"

"You bet."

And what did young Mr. Harper do? He sent an agent out to buy six or seven cows, a big churn that turned with a crank, small cans and big cans and a horse and wagon to contract for a supply of alfalfa to feed the cows on during the winter. When all these had been secured everything was presented to the widow and the daughter as a free gift, and they were told to go into the buttermilk industry for all they were worth. They had to sign a contract to supply the guests of the Mountain hotel with all the buttermilk wanted for the next five years, and they were not to ask above 15 cents a gallon. It was figured that at this price the profits would be about 12 per cent.

One morning the mighty Mr. Stebbins, who had run a one man trust for two years, drove up to the hotel in his nightgown and began to unload his cans of buttermilk. The guests ranged themselves on the veranda with smiles on their faces, and the landlord kindly but firmly announced to Mr. Stebbins that no more of his buttermilk was wanted. The Stebbins buttermilk trust was smashed. It was smashed as flat as a pancake. It was smashed by a young man, a widow and a strapping girl.

And when the strapping young girl drove up to the Mountain House for the second time with the light of triumph in her eyes and about a barrel of buttermilk to her wagon she saw a painter on a ladder in front of the house, and he was painting out the old sign preparatory to painting in a new one which should read "The Buttermilk House." And the hotel is there yet, and the sign is there yet, and every guest there is following the doctor's orders and is drinking cool, good buttermilk. There is a two woman trust, but it is a trust to be praised and not busted.

Exorbitant Possibilities.

"Sometimes I am in favor of peace at any price." "Yes; there is often a temptation to feel that way. The only difficulty is that the man who controls the supply is liable to keep boosting the price till you find you can't raise it."—Washington Star.

SUNDAY GAME AT McVEY'S FIELD

Kingston Plays Colored All Stars on Delaware Avenue Grounds—Red Monograms at Tirol—Other Games.

One of the fastest games of baseball of the season is scheduled for Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at McVey's Field when the recently organized Kingstonians will cross bats with the Colored All Stars of Albany. The Stars are considered the fastest aggregation of colored ball tossers in the vicinity of Albany, while the Kingstonians is made up of some of the fastest amateur players along the Hudson valley. So far this season Kingston has won two straight games and lost none. It expects to keep its record clean on Sunday by registering another win.

The Red Monograms of this city on Sunday afternoon will clash with the fast Tirol team at Tirol. The local team will make an excursion to Tirol on the yacht Livingston leaving Rondout at 12:30 o'clock that afternoon. It is expected that they will be accompanied by a number of local "fans," who enjoy a good game and also a sail on the river.

What promises to be a fast and exciting game of baseball will be staged on the Andrew street grounds Sunday when the Colonials, formerly the All Stars, will cross bats with the Mystics. Norton and McCauley will do the honors for the Colonials and Doyle and McLann will be in the points for the Mystics.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

 New York, May 20.—About the only way to settle the question as to who introduced golf in America, seems to be to arm the rival factions with machetes and let it be the survival of the fittest.

Ever since golf developed into a national sport in these free and gull-or-ce-yus United States, different folks have been claiming the credit for bringing the game from foreign shores while different municipalities are scrapping over the honor of being the first part of America in which sounded the ominous cry of "Fore!"

It seems, from the information at hand, that one John Reid, Sr., of Yonkers, N. Y., is credited with being the official parent of American golf. But there are many who rise up and say that Reid wasn't the first citizen in this fair land to import the foreign sport. The official birthday of organized American golf has been fixed as November 18, 1888, but the unofficial date is along in 1882.

White Sulphur Springs, which is a town in West Virginia, avers that the golf game was played there long before the Yonkers folks even thought of swatting the elusive globe. 'Tis said in White Sulphur Springs that somewhere along in the latter part of the 70's or the early 80's a few British subjects settled there. They became homesick quite rapidly and decided that the best cure was golf. So they went back home for a supply of balls and clubs, laid out a six hole course and began playing the dear, old game.

The Reddies, poch-poch the West Virginia claim, and credit the parentage of American golf to Reid. Yet, in so doing, they cite facts which would indicate that Reid really did not introduce the game; that if anyone in Yonkers turned the trick it was Reid's friend, Robert Lockart. But Reid gets the honor and has been given the title of "Father of American Golf."

Lockart, according to our information, went to Europe along in 1882, gazed upon a few golf matches, was invited to take several swats at the ball and at once became incalculably golfitis. When he returned to these shores, his pockets bulged with golf balls and his trunk contained a few clubs. Arriving in Yonkers in the fall of 1882, Lockart invited Reid into his backyard and the two began colluding. Very soon they became convinced that a yard was too small a place to confine one's driving activities. So they secured the "loan" of an orchard, belonging to H. O. Tallmadge, a Yonkers neighbor, and laid out a short hole course. It was crude to an extreme.

For a time the two—Lockart and Reid—golfed alone. Then Tallmadge wandered into their links one day and was invited to "take a swipe." He did—and missed. That "swipe" proved him, Tallmadge, up to that time, thought the game a silly one. Any one could hit that little ball, he figured. When he failed to hit it in his first swing, he took another—and another. By the time he actually whalloped it he had contracted golfitis in a malignant form.

In due course of time one or two other Yonkerites joined the trio. When spring time came there were nearly 20 golfers in Yonkers. Lockart had brought over only a few clubs. Of course they became "gang property" but the supply of clubs was too small. So the golfers sent to Europe for others and while waiting, some of them designed clubs of their own.

"And what fearful looking objects they were," exclaims a historian. In 1888 the first real golf links in America were laid out. The new course, a six hole, was laid in Yonkers, on the banks of the Hudson. The first matches were played over it on November 18, 1888—and the American golf games date officially from that time. No club house was built at first. An apple tree, with peculiar and low hanging branches, served for "lockers."

The organization was nicknamed "The Apple Tree Gang," but officially was called the St. Andrews Golf Club, which now is credited with being the first real golf club in the United States.

But in the meantime, White Sulphur folks are continuing to insist that the Yonkers persons stole their stuff—that to White Sulphur, not Yonkers, should go the credit as the place where American golf actually came into being.

Deliberate with caution, but act with decision and yield with graciousness or oppose with firmness.—Colton

Not Liners.
 The Giants Song.
 Nine straight we now have under our belt.
 We're going like mad all through the west.
 We hope to add more.
 And pile up a score.
 And then we can take a well earned rest.

It was some narrow squeeze for McGraw's men winning their ninth straight. Stroud and Tesreau fatted but Porritt pulled the game out of the fire.

The Dodgers now hold the undisputed lead. Taming the Cubs gave the Reds trimmed the Braves, gave Robinson's men a clear title again.

If it isn't the weather man it's something else. Darkness prevented the Tigers and Yanks getting the victory after 16 innings.

The Athletics are proving that they are not easy picking. They played the White Sox to a standstill and chalked up an eleventh inning win.

Home ran at Jamaica yesterday. He did.

Ever the Browns took a brace, taking the world champs into camp again.

The Indians are making the Nationals look like selling platters and increasing their lead.

McGowan was pie for his old team mates—the Pirates winning handily.

Saw Circus Though Ill.
 One of Kingston's circus visitors Friday was a middle aged man who had been ill for several weeks. He was accompanied by members of his family, who took him to a doctor's office when he became faint on Broadway. The physician found nothing of a serious nature. Later the man had several fainting spells on Albany avenue near the head of Broadway. Aromatic spirits of ammonia, camphor, ice water and a chair were supplied from the homes of Thomas A. Horton and Miss Keres, and the family of the sick stranger were aided by District Attorney Traver and Roger H. Loughran. The ambulance was summoned but the stranger had recovered his strength by the time it arrived. Dr. Frederick Snyder was summoned while passing and examined the man at the request of his family, but found his heart action strong. In the afternoon the entire family enjoyed the circus sights.

CIVIC DIVISION A PARADE FEATURE

There are great possibilities in making the civic division of the Memorial Day parade a huge demonstration in favor of preparedness, the same as other cities are doing, the latest suggestion being that employees of the factories, shops, stores, and other business places organize for the purpose of taking part in the parade.

The civic division will be for those who are not members of organizations which have decided to take part in the parade and is preliminarily a preparedness demonstration. The suggestion that such a division be formed has met with hearty approval in all parts of the city and there are many men and women who do not belong to any organization, and others whose organizations have not decided to parade, who have expressed a desire to take part in the Memorial Day march.

It has been suggested that employees of business firms, factories, stores, shops, etc., can organize and decide on the matter of taking part in the parade within a few minutes during the noon lunch hour or after the close of the day's work, and the action of such employees if they decide to parade can be communicated to Major George Chandler, who will be the grand marshal of the parade, or to Captain Frank L. Meagher, secretary of the committee on plan and scope.

More than a week remains in which to make arrangements which will give Kingston a parade far bigger and more successful than any which has been held here in the entire history of the city, but whatever action is taken should be taken soon in order that the committee may know what preparations to make.

An effort is being made to procure for the paraders in the civic division, the flags which were used in the recent big preparedness parade in New York city.

FIELD OF SPORTS.

Notes of Baseball, Pugilism and Other Lines of Athletics.

Knockouts last night:
 By Telegraph to The Freeman.
 Des Moines, Ia., May 20.—Frankie White of Chicago quit in the sixth round in his bout with Bobby Burns.

New York—George Cotton stopped Kid Ware in the fifth round.
 New York—Harry Martone was put to sleep in the first round by Eddie McEntee.

New York—Tom White of Newark went down in the seventh round at the hands of Fighting Joe Hyland.
 New York—Johnny Hilton put it over on Young Zach in two rounds; Battling McCormack lasted 35 seconds in his bout with Battling Willard.

Older fights results:
 New Orleans—Harry Wills defeated Jess Clark in 10 rounds.
 Cleveland—Young Ahearn of New York and Gus Christie of Milwaukee, fought a ten round draw.
 Minneapolis—Matt Brock of Cleveland outpointed Tickle Sanders in ten rounds.

Anderson to try hard to win Indianapolis race.
 Gil Anderson, who won first honors in the 250 mile Astor cup race in New York last fall, is anxious to add fresh laurels to his crown by winning the 200 mile international sweepstakes race to be run at the Indianapolis Speedway on Memorial Day.

Anderson, while not a veteran in the auto racing game, has acquired a reputation for skillful driving and will be one of the most closely watched contestants in the big race.

This year the race has reduced from 500 to 300 miles and track records are expected to fall.

School for Officers.
 Major George Chandler of this city will be the instructing officer at a school for the officers of the Poughkeepsie, Hudson, Catskill and Kingston National Guard officers, which will be held at the armory in this city tonight. This school closes the series of instructions which have been held in Kingston under the supervision of Major Chandler during the 1915-1916 drill season. All officers in the above named cities holding a commission in the Tenth Regiment are expected to attend the event this evening.

HE TOOK MEDICINE FOR A SORE TOE

But it Proved Too Strong and Landed William McGinnis in Jail for First Time in a Year—Sent Back to Home to Work on Farm.

William McGinnis, 51 years old, who has been a guest at the City Home on Flatbush avenue as he had a sore toe, decided to leave the confines of the institution on Friday and take in the cinema. He accordingly walked into town and from then on his memory was somewhat hazy. This morning when arraigned before Recorder Lang on a charge of public intoxication, he told of the events of the day as far as he could remember them.

Said he in reply to questions that he must have had only four or five beers, but he later confessed that he had started the day's celebration on with a hooker of whiskey. That proved a foundation for the jag that followed for the beer that he later drank did not care to make the close acquaintance of the whiskey and the results were such that William finally decided to lay down and sleep off the accumulation of joy juice he had disposed of. He selected the stone wall at the top of the Broadway hill as the most comfortable place he could find and was soundly sleeping when Policeman Charles Murphy, strolling that way heard his snores and took him up to jail.

This morning William was repentant and said that he had not been arrested in a year. As he had not drank any beer or whiskey in some time it must have gone to his head, said he.

Superintendent Edmonston, of the City Home, needs help to work the city farm it is evident that Recorder Lang took that in consideration when he discharged William and advised him to hurry back to the institution. There is no doubt but William's service as a farm laborer are more needed than if he was confined in the county hotel doing nothing but while away the time.

Expert Advice For the Automobile Owner

Queries and Replies Covering Matters of Importance to the Man Who Runs a Car

Can you tell me what causes my six cylinder motor to smoke? Am using heavy oil, have good compression, valves tight, new rings, all pump and splash. The pipes are not choked. Have the glass bulbs with adjustable spark gap any merit to them? They fit on top of spark plugs, and cable connects them.

I can advance the magnets of my car either one-quarter or all the way and not change the speed of the motor in the least. Is the timing correct?

From what you say it is evident that the control mechanism between the steering post and the breaker bar of the magnets or the battery timer has slipped or become disconnected somewhere, so that when you move the advance and retard levers on the top of the steering wheel it does not really advance or retard the spark. If the spark were advanced all the time the motor would be very likely to kick back when cranking. If, on the other hand, the spark remains retarded all the time the engine would be very likely to overheat when running.

I want to lighten the connecting rods and pistons in my car by boring holes in them. Can you tell me the size, location, and number of holes to be made?

We do not advise the boring of holes in either pistons or rods, as it would be of little advantage. In drilling holes in pistons, however, the common practice is to make them one-half inch in diameter. Either two or three rows are drilled, depending upon the length of the piston skirt. It is usual for them to have a pitch of about one and one-half inch. That is, the distance from center to center of the holes should be one and one-half inches ordinarily. The rows should, of course, be staggered, and in a piston of a diameter of about three and one-quarter inches twenty-four holes could be put. In doing the work precaution should be taken against cracking or breaking the thin shells of the pistons when drilling the holes. Fill up the inside of the piston with lead or make a block of wood to fit within it, thus making it possible to drill the holes safely.

How can I stop the rattling in the brake bands on my car?

Possibly the brakes need relining. Also shim up the suspension points so that there will be no lost side motion. It is advisable to use small coil springs to keep the suspended parts from hitting the brake drums.

What is the most effective ratio of diameter to length of a solenoid magnet when the travel of its armature does not exceed one-half inch? Also, can you give me a simple formula and an example of its application for winding a solenoid when the pressure to be exerted is forty pounds working through a distance of one-half inch, the amperage, voltage and size of wire used being unknown?

There is no definite relation between the length and diameter of an electromagnet for any service. If an engineer were designing a mechanism requiring a magnet such as you mention he would probably determine the size and length by experiment, as such a problem would be difficult of proper solution in any other way. A good rule to follow, however, is to make a solenoid three times the length of the maximum travel required of it. This is very general and might not be the best ratio for your purpose, so that with this as a basis to begin experimenting you could soon discover what the best size of magnet would be. For the pull of forty pounds it is certain that the coil would have to be over an inch in diameter.

My car has been run about 4,000 miles. The timing gears, which are of the spiral type, hewed at first and now thrash. How can I remedy that?

The second cylinder leaks oil, and the valves need grinding very often. The rings are in good shape, and I keep the oil level at the proper height. Could a twisted connecting rod cause this? It has a two point ignition system, and when using both plugs I notice a distinct knock.

Replacement of the gears, which are probably worn, is the best thing to do. They might be loose on their shafts, causing excessive noise.

The trouble with your second cylinder looks like a worn piston or one that is slightly under size. If the rings are in good shape try a new piston of correct diameter, or you might fit some form of anti-leak rings to it. The trouble will doubtless be eliminated. It does not seem that there is any fault with the connecting rods.

It is well to retard the spark slightly when you use two plugs as compared with its position when using only one to a cylinder. When you use two plugs to a cylinder they fire simultaneously in opposite sides of the combustion space and thus serve to propagate the flame a little faster than if only one plug is used. This is likely to have the same effect as if you advanced the spark a little, for it serves to put the maximum force of the expansion, due to combustion, at a slightly earlier time.

To secure best results from a motor should the valves open and close on exact dead centers of the crank shaft or should they open and close before or after dead center is reached?

It is a very rare instance where a valve is opened or closed at exact center. However, there is a six inch which the inlet valves open at exact upper center.

Queer Name of Georgia Town.

A town in Georgia rejoices in the strikingly original, but somewhat ambiguous designation of Nameless. The name was given from the fact that in a list of several hundred names submitted to the post office authorities, not one was found satisfactory.

Daily Thought.

I am fully convinced that the coal is indestructible, and that its activity will continue through eternity. It is like the sun, which, to our eyes, seems to set in night, but it has in reality only gone to diffuse its light elsewhere.—Goethe.

How to Steal a Cow

One of Daniel O'Connell's clients, who was acquitted upon a technical point of stealing a cow at night, was asked by O'Connell how he managed to steal the fattest cow in the dark.

"Why, then, I'll tell your honor the whole secret of that, sir. Whenever your honor goes to steal a cow always go on the worst night you can, for if the weather is very bad the chances are that nobody will be up to see your honor. The way you'll always know the fat cattle in the dark is by this token—that the fat cows always stand in the most exposed places, but the lean ones always go into the ditch for shelter."

A Brazilian Household Pet

Brazilians train a snake called the gabiola as a rat catcher. It is a fifteen-foot long, is harmless to the human being, becomes quite a household pet, is lazy in the daytime, but at night roams about the house in quest of its prey—rats. These animals it promptly kills by twisting their necks. When Brazilians have to pass from room to room in the dark they first put on their slippers. It would not be pleasant to plant one's bare feet on a cold, slimy snake of that size.

Will you please explain the positive and negative of batteries?

When an electric current goes through any nonmetallic liquid which is capable of carrying electricity the liquid is chemically decomposed, resulting in the splitting up of the chemical combinations. This is called electrolysis. One part of the disassociated liquid is liberated at the point where the current enters and the other part where it leaves. If we pass a current through water, as an example, the oxygen gas is freed where the current enters and hydrogen gas where it leaves. The conductors that lead the current in and out of the liquid, such as the electrolyte of a battery, are called the electrodes, and the one at which the current enters is the positive electrode and that at which the current goes out the negative.

Will you please tell me how to temper a spring?

The exact heat treatment to be given a spring steel depends on the composition. However, assuming that the steel is a .95 carbon steel, which is a grade of steel used generally for springs, the treatment after shaping or coiling, as the case may be, is as follows:

First—Heat to 1,425 degrees—1,475 degrees F.

Second—Quench in oil.

Third—Reheat to 400 degrees—500 degrees F. in accordance with the degree of temper desired, and then cool very slowly.

(The heating and tempering operation) the lower will be the yield point of the material. On the other hand, if the material be drawn at too low a temperature it will be brittle. A few practical trials will locate the best temper for any given shape or size.

You should also remember that the heat treating of springs is usually entrusted to the spring maker, and unless absolutely necessary for the work to be done, and by some one who knows this kind of work, it is inadvisable to refrain from doing it. Inexperienced persons are likely to ruin the material.

Is it true that the six cylinder crank shaft, due to its being longer than the four, is more subject to breaking?

There is very little difference as to the durability of the four and six cylinder crankshafts. It is true that in some cases the six cylinder crank shaft is longer than that of the four cylinder, but while it is not over 50 per cent longer, the impact, or rather force of the explosion, causing the turning movement, is 50 per cent less in two motors of the same power, one a four and one a six. Also as between the six cylinder crank shaft having a bearing in the center, as most of them do, and the block cast four having bearings only at the ends, the unsupported length of the crank shaft is smaller in the six than in the four.

What is the proper way to clean a spark plug?

Most people believe they have cleaned a spark plug properly when they have cleaned the spark gap points. The proper way is to remove the porcelain or insulator and clean it thoroughly. The carbon deposit on the porcelain frequently permits a short circuit between center rod and the engine metal.

What is the horsepower of a two cylinder motor with five inch bore and six and a half inch stroke at 750 r. p. m.?

It is impossible to give the exact brake horsepower of a motor by making calculations from formulas based upon bore, stroke and r. p. m. The reason for this is that the manifold design, valve size and general structure of the motor have so much to do with the matter that the power must be measured on a block to get anything like accurate results. An approximation can be made, however, by formula, assuming that the motor is in fairly good condition and that the design is approximately correct. On the basis of this formula four motor will develop about twenty horsepower.

MEMORIAL.

Highland, May 19.—George May of Cobleskill was a visitor on Friday with Capt. and Mrs. R. M. Decker.

Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin of Poughkeepsie were in town Friday. They will move to this place in a few weeks.

George Malloch from Florida arrived at Highland last week for a stay through the summer. In the fall, he says, he expects to return to warm climate for the winter, as usual.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelley Staples had guests the past Sunday from Newburgh.

The Missionary Society of the Methodist Church here held their regular meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Miss Adeline Terwilliger on White street. They had a very fine meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. James Miller of Poughkeepsie were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Turpin. Mrs. Philip Schantz was a shopper in Poughkeepsie on Wednesday.

Mrs. Vincent Jordan entertained Miss Anna Davis, social counselor of D. of A. Wednesday evening, when here for her official visit to Ida McKinley Council.

Mrs. Fred Miller of New York city has been spending some time here with her mother, Mrs. Almira Press, on Main street.

Miss Nina Hickman of New York was the week end guest of Frederick Van Nostrand and daughter, Miss Ada, at their home on Church street.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Upright were visiting relatives in Clintondale last Sunday. They motored there in their new Ford car.

Mrs. J. C. Coddington, wife of the Rev. J. C. Coddington, pastor of the First M. E. Church here, was appointed a delegate to attend the fall convention of the Foreign Missionary Society, which will be held in October, at East Orange, N. J. This appointment was made at the convention held in this place at the M. E. Church last Friday, May 12.

Convention of Christian Endeavorers was held Monday and Tuesday in the Presbyterian Church and was very interesting. A great many delegates were present and song service by Miss J. Wing was especially fine. Her solos were delightful.

Hugo Bartholomew and sister, Mrs. Henry Horst, of New York city, came on last Friday. They came up in their limousine, and on their return Mrs. J. C. Leo and son accompanied them to their city home. These people will come to their summer home on Maple avenue the first part of June. Their house is at present being renovated throughout, and also the exterior painted. S. W. Ferris is doing the work.

Dorothy Steller and Emily Miller have gone to Lake Mohonk for the summer. They were employed there last season and were delighted with the place, and they gave entire satisfaction, and we are positive they will, to the best of their ability, try and sure to please all again.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Coddington left on Tuesday morning, bright and early, with Dr. Becker, in his touring car, to attend the general conference of Methodists. We are positive they will enjoy every moment of it, for several practical and suggestive ideas will be given, and many discussions as to what has been done and what ought to be done, and many useful methods for future work will be evolved from this conference. We predict for them a most profitable and delightful time.

Mrs. J. C. Dedrick has returned to her summer home on Maple avenue, after spending several days in New York city on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schantz will have as guests next week Mr. and Mrs. J. Krom of Jersey City. Mrs. Krom is a sister of Mrs. Schantz.

James Stewart of Milton avenue has been spending a short time in the metropolis.

Mrs. Edward Rhoades has been quite ill at her home with an attack of tonsillitis. Glad to state she is improving.

Presbyterian people held their missionary meeting in their church last Wednesday. They had a very interesting program. Mrs. M. G. Young was in charge, and all spent a profitable afternoon.

Mrs. E. B. Harrington of this place visited friends in Clintondale last week.

Mr. and Mrs. George DuBois and children from Beacon visited the parents of Mr. DuBois on Maple avenue recently.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Eiting entertained guests from New Jersey last week.

Last Tuesday there was a goodly number from here attended the opera house, and witnessed the production of "The Garden of Allah," and all were delighted with it.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Colyer have had as their guest recently, F. Randall of New York city.

Dr. G. S. Lamore and wife have gone to Baltimore to spend some time with their daughter and husband, the Rev. and Mrs. William Wilcox, and while there will take in the beauties of some other southern cities.

Jerome Yates is looking fine. He will spend some time here, but he states that he expects to return to California in the early fall. He has purchased an automobile, and we expect to see him enjoying himself by taking trips through the country.

Mrs. Harcourt Pratt left here this week for the west. She is to visit her sister and brother, who reside in different parts of the west.

Mrs. Thomas Leonard of New York is here for a short stay with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Brown, on Vineyard avenue, and also her husband's people, Mr. and Mrs. James Leonard, on Main street.

Martin Upright is the owner of a Ford runabout now. We expect to see him and his wife taking various trips through the season.

Mrs. Albert Leroy of Lehighurst, N. J., has been visiting among friends in this place the past week.

Mrs. Clarence Leroy has returned here after spending several weeks in New York city with her people.

Mrs. George Press has returned home after a long absence in the mountains with her people. She was accompanied by her daughter, Ruth. They had a very delightful time while there.

Mrs. Chamber Atkins and Miss daughter, Ethel, have returned to their home on Wilson avenue after a delightful visit among relatives and friends in New York city for over a week.

Miss Nellie McConnell, bookkeeper for Atkins Brothers of this place, spent the week end at her home in Marlborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Miller spent the week end with relatives in Kingston, and had a very enjoyable time.

Miss Emma Fairbridge of this place had as her guest last Saturday Miss Elsie Abel of West Park.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Green from here visited Mr. and Mrs. Drake at West Park the past week.

Forster Leacy was a guest of friends in New Paltz last week.

Mauda Morris of Milton avenue entertained Miss Mildred Brown of Newburgh for the week end.

Mrs. Mar. Ellen Townsend and son, Edward, were guests recently of Mrs. J. Mackey in West Park.

Charles Carpenter and wife were guests last Sunday of Dr. and Mrs. Howard Carpenter in Poughkeepsie.

We saw Mr. and Mrs. A. Winthrop Williams in Marlborough last Sunday. They were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Edward Quimby of that place.

Mr. and Mrs. Edison Dimsey of North road had an addition to the family membership last Saturday evening of a little son, and we hear they are delighted.

Mrs. S. G. Carpenter left this week for a trip to Berkeley, California, where she will visit her sister, Mrs. Lester Van Nostrand, who is very ill. She expects to be absent from home several weeks.

Eastern Star people held their regular meeting Monday evening. Not a very large attendance owing to other affairs taking place on same evening. They will receive their D. G. M. and A. G. L. on Monday evening, May 29, at which time they expect quite a number of visitors.

Miss Belle Brinkerhoff was a shopper in Poughkeepsie Tuesday.

Mrs. George Eylet was a business visitor in Poughkeepsie on Tuesday, also Mrs. R. H. Decker.

Miss Carrie Gillman of Poughkeepsie was in this place Tuesday, calling on several friends.

Women's Foreign Missionary Society held their convention in First M. E. Church here for all day session on Friday last. There were delegates from many places, over 100 registered. The district superintendent, Rev. F. H. Deming, presided at the morning session and conducted devotional exercises. Afternoon session was especially interesting, as several ladies from out of town were the speakers and they held the people spellbound. In the evening, the pastor, Rev. J. C. Coddington conducted the service, which was of great interest. The music was fine. Miss J. Wing and George Canfield rendered a duet in a very artistic manner and was spoken of as a fine musical production. Another feature greatly appreciated was a play showing by twelve people in costume the work in China. Miss Kipp from India gave a very inspiring address on people and work in that place. Those people who visited were all given supper and supper at church parlors. The ladies called to 104 delegates for noon meal, also 75 for supper. There were many who remained over night and were entertained most hospitably at the various homes of M. E. people. Take it altogether it was a very delightful convention.

Miss Laura Harcourt has returned home after spending some time at Mt. Vernon, but returns again to stay with her brother and children.

The Epworth League held a social in the M. E. Church Friday evening, May 19, which we were informed, is called a due social, when all members are requested to come or send their dues for the year.

Some of the women suffragists expected to go to New Paltz on Wednesday, May 18, to attend a convention. There will be a session in the forenoon also one in the afternoon. The speakers will be from New York. They look forward to a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Marsh and Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Metcalf were to act as hosts and hostesses Tuesday evening at Grange. On account of the storm the meeting was postponed, and we hear will take place in two weeks and the program which was to have been given then will be put on at next meeting.

GOOD TIME TO BUY MONUMENTS And Gravestones

BUDS on trees are now in full blossom—flowers and shrubbery will soon be at their best, and plans for spring beautifying of burial plots are in the minds of many who will read this message of "preparedness" for Memorial Day.

We are splendidly prepared to assist in the task of beautifying the resting places of departed relatives and friends with superbly beautiful, skillfully executed, artistically designed Monuments, Headstones and Markers, and to induce purchasing now instead of later, we shall make only on every stone we have on hand. This is a genuine, bonafide offer which may not again be made in years. We realize that many people have for a long time been considering the purchase of a gravestone of some kind and have put it off repeatedly on account of the European war, excessively "high cost of living" and other cogent reasons. But under our liberal price-reduction offer, monuments and other stones are placed within the financial means of every prospective purchaser.

FINAL TRIBUTE TO GEO. L. WACHMEYER

Eulogy by Pastor Schmidtkonz of the Spring Street German Lutheran Church at Funeral of Aged and Respected Member.

The funeral services of George L. Wachmeyer, the veteran Strand furniture dealer, were held Friday evening at the late residence, No. 11 Hone street, and were attended by the friends of the deceased and members of the Spring Street German Lutheran Church, of which he was long an honored member. The Rev. A. Schmidtkonz, pastor of the church, officiated at the services, and also this morning when a short service was held at the house at 10 o'clock. The interment was in Montrose cemetery and the bearers were members of the family. At the evening service Pastor Schmidtkonz spoke first in German, taking as his text Psalms, 37th chapter, 5th verse: "Commit thy way unto the Lord; trust also in Him, and He shall bring it to pass." Pastor Schmidtkonz then delivered a eulogy in English taking his theme from second Timothy, 4th chapter, 7th and 8th verses: "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith; henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that day; and not to me only, but unto all them that love His appearing." Pastor Schmidtkonz said:

Beloved Friends: The lips of your dear father are closed to this world forever. But let us listen to what they would say to us in this hour if they could move and we could understand. A dying Christian would tell us: I am the handiwork of the Almighty, the wise and good God. He created me, and soul and body joined together for a life of immortal joy. But I was conceived and born in sin, and O, what a burden has life in this world turned out to be on account of sin—labor and trouble, anxiety and sorrow, illness, death and the grave. If I sought refuge from my sin and all the sad consequences of sin—in my own wisdom and work, I was indeed hopelessly lost, but my trust in God, the merciful and all powerful, for I trust in Jesus, who taketh away the sins of the world and has taken away all my guilt also; God is reconciled unto me and I am at peace with Him.

I lay me down in peace and sleep. By dying I go to rest, and I shall awake again on the glorious day of resurrection, to see God and my Savior and all my loved ones, in light and life and joy forever.

To those dying in this manner we may apply at their departure from this life the triumphant song of St. Paul: "I have finished my course, I have kept the faith; henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that day; and not to me alone, but unto all them also that love His appearing."

"I have finished my course," I have accomplished, through the grace and power of God, the work of my life. The life of the deceased has not been trifled away, as so many lives are. Poor as he had come to this blessed country, he sustained himself by hard labor at his trade, and by his earnest and faithful work established a prosperous business. There have been few more industrious, more successful and more contented citizens than our delighted brother, whose name the records of our city will always delight to mention.

We may truly say: He finished his course; he walked the path which God in his providence had marked out for him, till God released the weary pilgrim. Your husband and your father, now sainted, as we hope, leaves you the heritage of a good name, which is more illustrious than gold or silver.

But, by the grace of God, we are entitled to proclaim over the coffin of your beloved father also these words: "I have kept the faith." What faith? The faith in himself and in his moral perfection? No, dear not. "I have kept the faith" means the genuine Christian faith, the apostolic faith laid down in the holy scriptures, and professed in the doctrines of our Lutheran Church.

This was also the faith of our departed brother. To keep this faith he, and with him several others, who have already passed to the other world, organized our German Lutheran Trinity Church, went through all the labors and troubles and afflictions of establishing a church on the sound basis of apostolic truth. If his heart clung to his business, it cleaved still more to the church of Christ, and he was willing to devote his time and money and counsel to the interests of his congregation, which he assisted in building two churches. He served his church in various ways, as deacon, trustee and elder, and was sent to represent his congregation at synodical conventions when the congregation connected itself with the Evangelical Lutheran Ministerium of the State of New York, in the year 1854. Mr. Wachmeyer was sent as its first lay delegate. He was a light and a pillar of our congregation, and everybody put the greatest confidence in him.

And as he was a dutiful church member, he also conducted himself as a devout Christian with his family and in his daily walk. He and his spouse were not ashamed of making their home a Christian home, where the word of God and the prayers could be heard, and the books and periodicals of Zion might be read.

Thus our brother kept the faith. Moreover, he died in this faith. This I can confess openly, as I was with him in his last hour. Therefore, by the grace of God, we are entitled to proclaim over the coffin of our departed father also these words of our text: "Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that day; and not to me alone, but unto all them also that love His appearing."

The life of faith and righteousness has its blessings in some measure already in this world. The Lord crowned our deceased brother with many blessings. He reached an age to which only few people attain. The Lord fulfilled to him what he promised in the 91st Psalm: "With long life I satisfy him, and show him my salvation." He was granted to enjoy the love and tender care of his children and children's children, who were delighted and thankful for every year that was added to the age of their beloved father. They surely fulfilled the fifth commandment: "Honor thy father and thy mother." May the promised reward rest upon them: peace and prosperity and a long life.

Another blessing which our departed brother was granted to enjoy was to grow old with the faithful and loving companion of his life, the now deeply afflicted widow, who walked with him and shared with him the joys and sorrows of life for 65 years.

We feel today the deep sorrow of the sorely afflicted mother and share with her the grief that fills her heart. But we know that she has the sure hope of everlasting life, and for her also the hour of redemption is drawing nigh, when her sorrow shall cease, and her tears shall be wiped away; when she shall meet him again for whom she now mourns.

Our departed brother has experienced the love and mercy of God in this life. But there is another blessing, the crown of righteousness laid up in heaven for all true believers. Everlasting life and immortal glory is the crown of righteousness bestowed upon the children of God for Christ's sake in whom they lived and died.

This, then, is the crown which we trust, our departed father has received, and which he will fully receive in the morning of the resurrection. This must be your joy in this present sorrow, our comfort in grief.

He has departed from our congregation here to join the congregation above; he left your family here to meet its sainted members there; he quit his earthly toil to enter into the rest of God's people; he has been removed from the field of battle to mingle with the triumphant host.

There is a land of pure delight, Where saints immortal reign. Eternal day excludes the night, And pleasures banish pain.

CATSKILL RUNNERS FINISH ROAD RACE

Y. M. C. A. Lads in Spirited Road Relay Bring Challenge to Kingston Y. M. C. A. to Better Time if Possible.

The long-anticipated road relay race of the Catskill Y. M. C. A. Juniors was held this morning from that village to Kingston and the thirty odd youngsters taking part covered the distance in two hours and forty minutes which is considered good time in view of the going. The runners were paced by automobiles and were in fine shape at the finish in this city.

Paced by a dozen automobiles, consisting of nine participants in the relay, Robert Whitaker arrived at entrance to the Y. M. C. A. on Broadway at exactly 11:45 o'clock and handed over his message to General Secretary Beckwith. The message was as follows:

"Catskill Y. M. C. A. extends hearty greetings to Kingston Y. M. C. A.—The Catskill boys challenge the Kingston boys to relay a message to Catskill in the same time our boys have relayed a message to Kingston."

The message is signed by Secretary L. T. Wood of the Catskill Y. M. C. A.

The Catskill Runners.

The runners were: Stetson Harding, Charles Stokes, Lyle Olmstead, James Decker, Edward Goldstein, Elmer Overbaugh, Andrew Overbaugh, George Moon, Spencer Tanner, Clarence Smith, Joseph Savers, Fred Van Orden, Ambrose Day, Donald Cairns, Fred Spahn, James Pousant, Floyd Jump, Philip Bliss, Vernon Plusch, Robert Whitaker, Leroy Yager, George Decker, Alvin Simmons, Pierre Baptiste, Claude Day, Ralph Sherman, Sheridan Melan, Cecil Daniels, D. Hollenger, Joseph Kelly and John Conklin.

It is understood that the Y. M. C. A. boys of Kingston will accept the challenge and endeavor to better the time of their Catskill visitors. The latter were entertained with a plunk in the big swimming tank after which they returned to their homes by automobile.

Neilson Marriage Annulled.

Judge Hasbrouck this morning granted an interlocutory judgment annulling the marriage of Lillian E. Dunn Neilson and Benjamin F. Neilson, which was tried before him last week. The plaintiff is under her name the action was brought in her behalf by her mother, Emma Depew. The parties were married at Long Island City on August 23, 1913, and the defendant now resides at Astoria, Long Island. The annulment was asked on the ground of fraud. Judge N. Frank O'Reilly appeared for the plaintiff; the defendant was not represented.

Conlin Divorce Suit.

A final hearing was had this morning before Judge Hasbrouck in the suit for divorce by Jane Conlin against Edwin Conlin, which has been heard regularly almost every week for some time. Only one witness was examined—Alderman John Remus, who testified that the reputation of one of the plaintiff's witnesses for truth and veracity was poor, and he would not believe the witness under oath. Decision in the case was reserved.

PURVIS SUIT FOR SEPARATION

An action for separation brought by Eliza Jane Purvis against Richardson Purvis on the ground of non-support and cruel and inhuman treatment was tried before Judge Hasbrouck at the special term of the supreme court at the court house this morning.

The Purvises were married October 3, 1873, and have two children, both of whom are over 21 years old. Mr. Purvis is a sidewalk layer and is employed only for part of the year.

According to Mrs. Purvis's statement, her husband for a number of years has come home drunk every Saturday night and sometimes often, and when in that condition has carried a lamp through the house, threatening to set the house on fire; has threatened to injure her and has called her indecent names in the presence of the children.

Purvis has no intention of opposing the suit, and a separation had been practically agreed on by the parties and their attorneys when the matter came before Judge Hasbrouck, who said that under the statement of Mrs. Purvis her husband ought to be sent to jail. The judge asked what Mrs. Purvis earned and Mrs. Purvis said her daughter supported her. To this statement, Judge Hasbrouck said it was unjust to ask the daughter to support her mother entirely without the help of the husband.

"I know Purvis and he ought to be ashamed of himself," said Judge Hasbrouck. "He ought to have enough pride left to get money together and take the cure."

"He took the pledge, your honor," said Robert G. Groves, counsel for Mrs. Purvis.

"That was only absent treatment," said Judge N. Frank O'Reilly, who appeared for Purvis.

Judge Hasbrouck said he would grant a decree directing the payment of $5 a week by Purvis to the support of his wife. Good behavior might lead him to modify the decree later, and if he did not pay the money he would consider that phase of the case later.

MISS IRENE HYLAND.

GIRL GOES TO FRONT FROM BELLEVUE TO SUPERVISE THE FOOD.

New York, May 20.—All Bellevue Hospital mourned today for Miss Irene Hyland, the young dietitian, who for six years has seen to it that each patient got just the food that it was necessary for his recovery, is to leave on Saturday, May 20, for the battle front in France. She is the first woman dietitian to volunteer for service, and she will go with the Harvard Medical School Unit in the British Army Hospital Service.

Miss Hyland is a Canadian, a graduate of Toronto University, and for some time has been anxious to go to the front. She asked to go with a Toronto University unit some time ago, but there was no place for her, as she is not a trained nurse.

She was delighted a few days ago when told that the Harvard unit, which leaves Saturday on the Andania, of the Cunard line, would be glad to have her.

Her duties will be to supply food and supervise its preparation for patients cared for by the unit. She has had the same task for all of Bellevue Hospital.

"What is more natural than that a woman should see to planning the meals for the men?" she said. "That is the natural woman's sphere."

FORCED TO BE SECRET

Big League Scouts Must Do Their Work Under Cover.

Scout Managers Concealed All Sorts of Ways to Boost Assets—Setting Averages Padded to Make Players Tempting.

Many good stories are told by big league scouts—and about them. Jim Murphy, former scout for the Chicago Nationals, tells one which shows the value of keeping under cover. The Marlon (C.) club had a player it was trying to peddle off on the big leagues. The tip finally reached the Cubs that here was a splendid player for the top rung. So Jim Murphy went down to look him over.

On the day he arrived he took his seat in the grandstand, unobserved, and according to his custom immediately began asking questions about the youngster.

The fan on his right happened to be a keen rooster, so Murphy opened up on him. The talk finally led around to the man the Cubs were after. "What kind of a player is So and So?" inquired Murphy.

"Bill Smith" (name faked for obvious reason), exclaimed the fan. "Oh, Bill's a wonderful fielder, when he leaves the booze alone." was the unexpected answer. It is almost needless to say Murphy took the next train back home. He had learned all he wanted in that one short sentence.

On another occasion Murphy was investigating a player up in Wisconsin. The manager of the team was doing his best to sell the "star" for a big price, but he knew his man was a hard drinker and tried to conceal the fact. So he introduced Murphy to the player and then started to take the party on a tour of the saloons in town.

Every time a drink was ordered he tipped the wink to his player and he would order a cigar, much to the amazement of the bartender. He would instinctively reach for the bottle which the player generally ordered, as Murphy noticed with an inward smile.

And every time said player asked for a cigar the manager would nudge Murphy and exclaim, "See that? He's as steady and temperate as they make them." But any man with half an eye would have spotted the player for a hard drinker. He even had it on his breath. Murphy finally left town without his man.

This just shows to what means managers will go in their anxiety to sell a player for a good price and make some profits for the club. There are even cases where batting averages are padded to give the impression players are sluggers, thus making them tempting bait for big-league scouts.

A scout has to be a detective in addition to his other virtues. It is no easy job.

HAS NEW STYLE OF HITTING

George Cutshaw of Brooklyn Hopes to Increase Batting Average from .250 to .300 Class.

George Cutshaw, like all good citizens, is ambitious, and to further his latest ambition he has drilled himself into a new style of hitting, which he fervently hopes will jump his batting average from the .250 class into the .300 division, or thereabouts. Now George has discovered that he can be much more effective at the bat, especially in the production of extra-base blows, by taking a shorter grip on the stick, giving his arms full swing and whirling his body in unison with his arms.

HARD LUCK OF BABE ADAMS

Four Games Should Have Been Recorded as "No-Hit" Performances—Ball Lost in Sun.

Babe Adams has pitched four one-hit games in his career that he thinks should have gone as no-hit games. Once with Denver a fielder lost a ball in the sun and it went for a hit. Again with Louisville the same thing happened. In the National league he held Cincinnati to two infield taps that liberal scorers might have registered as errors.

Regretted His Limitations.

"What are you, anyway?" contemptuously inquired Mrs. Peck during the quarrel: "A man or a mouse?" "A man," answered Henry Peck bitterly. "If I were a mouse I'd have you up on that table now, yelling for help."

The Buttermilk House

How a Trust Was Busted
by a Rich Young Man
Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Did you ever hear how a hotel came to be called the Buttermilk House? It was first called the Mountain House. But a trust in buttermilk was smashed there, and that changed the name.

When the hotel had been running for a couple of years the buttermilk craze spread from east to west, and it soon found its way to the Mountain House. There was only one man within ten miles of the Mountain House who saw money in buttermilk, and his name was Stebbins. He bought five cows, a big churn and cans, and he delivered buttermilk to the hotel in gallons and charged 25 cents for every gallon that he delivered.

Away off in New York city was young Carroll Harper, who held a situation in his wealthy father's bank. He was an industrious young man instead of a dawdler. He was anxious to learn the banking business, and though rich in his own right, he stuck to his work like some of the employees who were getting salaries of only $20 a week. By and by a crisis came—that is, young Harper for his appetite gave, his nerves all a quiver and his ambition about faded away. He went to a doctor, and after being questioned and thumped and poked over the doctor looked him in the face with sternness and said:

"Go west, young man! Go west, sir!"

"But why?" was asked.

"To breathe in great chunks of ozone and drink a gallon of buttermilk every day and to come back here in about sixty days feeling as well or better than you have in the past ten years."

And the doctor, who had heard of the Mountain House and had sent three or four invalids there, advised the young man to make straight for that spot and to order a supply of buttermilk as soon as he had registered. His advice was heeded, and one morning the young man descended from the stage and entered the hotel. The place was off the railroad by fifteen miles.

They generally did out all about you very soon at a country hotel, and it was scarcely two hours before it was generally known to the landlord and among the guests that Carroll Harper had a financial and social standing in the big city in the east. It was also known to Mr. Stebbins, and when he called to take the order for buttermilk he raised the price from 25 cents to double that sum because he was dealing with a rich young man.

"Isn't that double what the others are paying?" he was asked.

"Oh, it's a little more," was the reply, "but you are rich and can afford it. What is a quarter a day to a man of millions?"

"But it strikes me as extortion."

"Well, you can take it or leave it. I am the only one around here with buttermilk to sell, and I can put any price on it I like."

The young man who was the victim of an extortionist decided to get even. He took the landlord into his confidence, and there was a conspiracy to smash Mr. Stebbins' trust.

After a ten mile auto ride down the valley and back only one family was found so situated that they could help Mr. Harper carry out his plans. This family was composed of a widow and a strapping daughter. They owned and worked a little farm together, but they did not even have one cow nor any outfit with which to deal with the buttermilk question. In a conversation the young man had with the strapping girl on the doorsteps he asked:

"Can you and your mother milk and take care of six or seven cows?"

"Yes, or ten of them," she answered.

"Can you drive a horse and wagon?"

"You bet."

And what did young Mr. Harper do? He sent an agent out to buy six or seven cows; a big churn that turned with a crank, small cans and big cans and a horse and wagon to contract for a supply of alfalfa to feed the cows on during the winter. When all these had been secured everything was presented to the widow and the daughter as a free gift, and they were told to go into the buttermilk industry for all they were worth. They had to sign a contract to supply the guests of the Mountain hotel with all the buttermilk wanted for the next five years, and they were not to ask above 15 cents a gallon. It was figured that at this price the profits would be about 12 per cent.

One morning the mighty Mr. Stebbins, who had run a one man trust for two years, drove up to the hotel in his mightiness and began to unload his cans of buttermilk. The guests ranged themselves on the veranda with smiles on their faces, and the landlord kindly but firmly announced to Mr. Stebbins that no more of his buttermilk was wanted. The Stebbins buttermilk trust was smashed. It was smashed as flat as a pancake. It was smashed by a young man, a widow and a strapping girl.

And when the strapping young girl drove up to the Mountain House for the second time with the light of triumph in her eyes and about a barrel of buttermilk in her wagon she saw a painter on a ladder in front of the house, and he was painting out the old sign preparatory to painting in a new one, which should read: "The Buttermilk House." And the hotel is there yet, and the sign is there yet, and every guest there is following the doctor's orders and is drinking cool good buttermilk. There is a two woman trust, but it is a trust to be praised and not booted.

Exorbitant Possibilities.

"Sometimes I am in favor of peace at any price." "Yes; there is often a temptation to feel that way. The only difficulty is that the man who controls the supply is liable to keep boosting the price till you find you can't raise it."—Washington Star.

SUNDAY GAME AT MCVEY'S FIELD

Kingston Plays Colored All Stars on Delaware Avenue Grounds—Red Monograms at Tivoli—Other Games.

One of the fastest games of baseball of the season is scheduled for Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at McVey's Field when the recently organized Kingston will cross bats with the Colored All Stars of Albany. The Stars are considered the fastest aggregation of colored ball tossers in the vicinity of Albany, while the Kingston is made up of some of the fastest amateur players along the Hudson valley. So far this season Kingston has won two straight games and lost none. It expects to keep its record clean on Sunday by registering another win.

The Red Monograms of this city on Sunday afternoon will clash with the fast Tivoli team at Tivoli. The local team will make an excursion to Tivoli on the yard's Livingston leaving Kingston at 12:30 o'clock that afternoon. It is expected that they will be accompanied by a number of local fans, who enjoy a good game and also a sail on the river.

What promises to be a fast and exciting game of baseball will be staged on the Andrew street grounds Sunday when the Colonials, formerly the All Stars, will cross bats with the Mystics. Norton and McCauley will do the honors for the Colonials and Doyle and McLann will be in the points for the Mystics.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

New York, May 20.—About the only way to settle the question as to who introduced golf in America seems to be to arm the rival factions with machetes and let it be the survival of the fittest.

Ever since golf developed into a national sport in these free and gull-or-ec-rus United States, different folks have been claiming the credit for bringing the game from foreign shores while different municipalities are scrapping over the honor of being the first part of America in which sounded the ominous cry of "Fore!"

It seems, from the information at hand, that one John Reid, Sr., of Yonkers, N. Y., is credited with being the official parent of American golf. But there are many who rise up and say that Reid wasn't the first to introduce this fair land to import the foreign sport. The official birthday of organized American golf has been fixed as November 18, 1882, but the unofficial date is along in 1882.

White Sulphur Springs, which is a town in West Virginia, avers that the golf game was played there long before the Yonkers folks thought of swatting the elusive globe. 'Tis said in White Sulphur Springs that somewhere along in the latter part of the 70's or the early 80's a few British subjects settled there. They became homesick quite rapidly and decided that the best cure was golf. So they went back home for a supply of balls and clubs, laid out a six hole course and began playing the dear, old game.

The Reddies, pool-pool the West Virginia claim, and credit the parentage of American golf to Reid. Yet, in so doing, they cite facts which would indicate that Reid really did not introduce the game; that if anyone in Yonkers turned the trick it was Reid's friend, Robert Lockart. But Reid gets the honor and has been given the title of "Father of American Golf."

Lockart, according to our information, went to Europe along in 1882, gazed upon a few golf matches, was invited to take several swats at the ball and at once became an acolyte with golfists. When he returned to these shores, his pockets bulged with golf balls and his trunk contained a few clubs. Arriving in Yonkers in the fall of 1882, Lockart invited Reid into his backyard and the two began golfing. Very soon they became convinced that a yard was too small a place to confine one's driving activities. So they secured the "loan" of an orchard belonging to H. O. Tallmadge, a Yonkers neighbor, and laid out a short six-hole course. It was crude to an extreme.

For a time the two—Lockart and Reid—golfed alone. Then Tallmadge wandered into their links one day and was invited to "take a swat." He did, and missed. That failure piqued him. Tallmadge, up to that time, thought the game a little one. Any one could hit that little ball, he figured, when he failed to hit it in his first swing, he took another—and another. By the time he actually whalloped it he had contracted Golfitis in a malignant form.

In due course of time one or two other Yonkerites joined the trio. When spring time came there were nearly 20 golfers in Yonkers. Lockart had brought over only a few clubs. Of course they became "gang property" but the supply of clubs was too small. So the golfers sent to Europe for others and while waiting, some of them designed clubs of their own.

"And what fearful looking objects they were," exclaims a historian. In 1883 the first real golf links in America were laid out. The new course, a six hole, was laid in Yonkers, on the banks of the Hudson. The first matches were played over it on November 18, 1882—and the American golf game date officially from that time. No club house was built at first. An apple tree, with peculiar and low hanging branches, served for "lockers."

The organization was nicknamed "The Apple Tree Gang," but officially was called the St. Andrews Golf Club, which now is credited with being the first real golf club in the United States.

But in the meantime, White Sulphur folks are continuing to insist that the Yonkers persons stole their stuff—that to White Sulphur, not Yonkers, should go the credit as the place where American golf actually came into being.

We're neutral.

Hot Liners.

The Giants Song.

Nine straight we now have under our test.
We're going like mad all through the west.
We hope to add more.
And then v can take a well earned rest.

It was some narrow squeeze for McGraw's men winning their ninth straight. Stroud and Tetreau failed but Peritt pulled the game out of the fire.

The Dodgers now hold the undisputed lead. Taming the Cubs while the Reds trimmed the Braves, gave Robinson's men a clear title again.

If it isn't the weather man it's something else. Darkness prevented the Tigers and Yanks getting the victory after 16 innings.

The Athletics are proving that they are not easy picking. They played the White Sox to a standstill and chalked up an eleventh inning win.

Horne ran at Jamaica yesterday. He did.

Even the Browns took a brace, taking the world champs into camp again.

The Indians are making the Nationals look like selling plasters and increasing their lead.

McQuillan was pie for his old team mates—the Pirates winning handily.

San Circus Though Ill.

One of Kingston's circus visitors Friday was a middle aged man who had been ill for several weeks. He was accompanied by members of his family, who took him to a doctor's office when he became faint on reaching the physician found nothing of a serious nature. Later the man had several fainting spells on Albany avenue near the head of Broadway. Aromatic spirits of ammonia, camphor, ice water and a chair were supplied from the home of Thomas A. Horton and Miss Kerr, and the family of the sick stranger were aided by District Attorney Traver and J. H. Loughran. The ambulance was summoned but the stranger had recovered so strength by the time it arrived. Dr. Frederick Snyder was summoned while passing and examined the man at the request of his family, but found his heart action strong. In the afternoon the entire family enjoyed the circus sights.

Roof Contract Awarded.

CIVIC DIVISION A PARADE FEATURE

There are great possibilities in store for Kingstonians in making the civic division of the Memorial Day parade a huge demonstration in favor of preparedness, the same as other cities are doing, the latest suggestion being that employees of the factories, shops, stores, and other business places organize for the purpose of taking part in the parade.

The civic division will be for those who are not members of organizations which have decided to take part in the parade and is prominently a preparedness demonstration. The suggestion that such a division be formed has met with hearty approval in all parts of the city and there are many men and women who do not belong to any organization, and others whose organizations have not decided to parade, who have expressed a desire to take part in the Memorial Day march.

It has been suggested that employees of business firms, factories, stores, shops, etc., can organize and decide on the matter of taking part in the parade within a few minutes during the noon lunch hour or after the close of the day's work, and the action of such employees if they decide to parade can be communicated to Major George Chandler, who will be the grand marshal of the parade, or to Captain Frank L. Meagher, secretary of the committee on plan and scope.

More than a week remains in which to make arrangements which will give Kingston a parade far bigger and more successful than any which has been held here in the entire history of the city, but whatever action is taken should be taken soon in order that the committee may know what preparations to make.

An effort is being made to procure for the paraders in the civic division the flags which were used in the recent big preparedness parade in New York city.

FIELD OF SPORTS.

Notes of Baseball, Pugilism and Other Lines of Athletics.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Knockouts last night:

Des Moines, Ia., May 20.—Franklin White of Chicago quit in the sixth round in his bout with Bobby Burns.

New York—George Cotton stopped Kid Ware in the fifth round.

New York—Harry Martone was put to sleep in the first round by Eddie McEntee.

New York—Tom White of Newark went down in the seventh round at the hands of Fighting Joe Hyland.

New York—Johnny Hilton put it over on Young Zach in two rounds; Battling McCormack lasted 35 seconds in his bout with Battling Willard.

Old fight results:
New Orleans—Harry Willis defeated Jess Clark in 20 rounds.
Cleveland—Young Ahearn of New York and Gus Christie of Milwaukee fought a ten round draw.

Minneapolis—Matti Brock of Cleveland outpointed Tickle Sanders in ten rounds.

ANDERSON TO TRY HARD TO WIN INDIANAPOLIS RACE.

Gil Anderson, who won first honors in the 250 mile Astor Cup race in New York last fall, is anxious to add fresh laurels to his crown by winning the 200 mile international sweepstakes race to be run at the Indianapolis Speedway on Memorial Day.

Anderson, while not a veteran in the auto racing game, has acquired a reputation for skillful driving and will be one of the most closely watched contestants in the big race.

This year the race has reduced from 500 to 300 miles and track records are expected to fall.

School for Officers.

Major George Chandler of this city will be the instructing officer at a school for the officers of the Poughkeepsie, Hudson, Catskill and Kingston National Guard officers, which will be held at the armory in this city tonight. This school closes the series of instructions which have been held in Kingston under the supervision of Major Chandler during the 1915-1916 indoor drill season. All officers in the above named cities holding a commission in the Tenth Regiment are expected to attend the event this evening.
